The Invention of Martial Arts Paul Bowman, 2020-12-31 Through popular movies starring Bruce Lee and songs like the disco hit Kung Fu Fighting martial arts have found a central place in the Western cultural imagination But what would martial arts be without the explosion of media texts and images that brought it to a wide audience in the late 1960s and early 1970s In this examination of the media history of what we now call martial arts author Paul Bowman makes the bold case that the phenomenon of martial arts is chiefly an invention of media representations Rather than passively taking up a preexisting history of martial arts practices some of which of course predated the martial arts boom in popular culture media images and narratives actively constructed martial arts Grounded in a historical survey of the British media history of martial arts such as Bartitsu jujutsu judo karate tai chi and MMA across a range of media this book thoroughly recasts our understanding of the history of martial arts By interweaving theories of key thinkers on historiography such as Foucault and Hobsbawm and Said's ideas on Orientalism with analyses of both mainstream and marginal media texts Bowman arrives at the surprising insight that media representations created martial arts rather than the other way around In this way he not only deepens our understanding of martial arts but also demonstrates the productive power of media discourses

Exploiting East Asian Cinemas Ken Provencher, Mike Dillon, 2018-01-11 From the 1970s onward exploitation cinema as a concept has circulated inside and outside of East Asian nations and cultures in terms of aesthetics and marketing However crucial questions about how global networks of production and circulation alter the identity of an East Asian film as mainstream or as exploitation have yet to be addressed in a comprehensive way Exploiting East Asian Cinemas serves as the first authoritative guide to the various ways in which contemporary cinema from and about East Asia has trafficked across the somewhat elusive line between mainstream and exploitation Focusing on networks of circulation distribution and reception this collection treats the exploitation cinemas of East Asia as mobile texts produced consumed and in many ways re appropriated across national and hemispheric boundaries As the processes of globalization have decoupled products from their nations of origin transnational taste cultures have declared certain works as art or trash regardless of how those works are received within their native locales By charting the routes of circulation of notable films from Japan China and South Korea this anthology contributes to transnationally accepted formulations of what constitutes East Asian exploitation cinema

Vicious Circuits Joseph Jonghyun Jeon,2019-03-12 In December of 1997 the International Monetary Fund announced the largest bailout package in its history aimed at stabilizing the South Korean economy in response to a credit and currency crisis of the same year Vicious Circuits examines what it terms Korea s IMF Cinema the decade of cinema following that crisis in order to think through the transformations of global political economy at the end of the American century It argues that one of the most dominant traits of the cinema that emerged after the worst economic crisis in the history of South Korea was its preoccupation with economic phenomena As the quintessentially corporate art form made as much in the boardroom as in the studio film in this context became an ideal site for thinking through the global political economy in the transitional moment of American decline and Chinese ascension With an explicit focus of state economic policy IMF cinema did not just depict the economy it also was this economy s material embodiment That is it both represented economic developments and was itself an important sector in which the same pressures and changes affecting the economy at large were at work Joseph Jonghyun Jeon s window on Korea provides a peripheral but crucial perspective on the operations of late US hegemony and the contradictions that ultimately corrode it

East Asian Film Stars L. Wing-Fai,A. Willis,2014-05-21 Many stars from China Japan and Korea are the most popular and instantly recognizable in the world East Asian Film Stars brings together some of the world s leading cinema scholars to offer their insights into the work of regional and transnational screen legends contemporary superstars and mysterious cult personas

Transcultural Images in Hollywood Cinema Ugur Baloglu,Yildiz Derya Birincioglu,2021-06-29 Transcultural Images in Hollywood Cinema discusses how cinema particularly Hollywood impacts the cultural identities we construct for ourselves in order to make sense of who we are in the world The politics of representation in cinema influence the boundaries of ethnic and racial characteristics and invent cultural and symbolic meanings that create a conventional image throughout the world The transnational perspective dissolves fragments and decentralizes this image leaving the nationalist understanding of identity to a hybrid form Cultures and identities that are expanded across borders form a mosaic by combining their local characteristics with those of the host cultures This book examines the transnational and transcultural characteristics of Hollywood cinema The narrative cinematographic and aesthetic structures of Hollywood cinema are turned upside down as chapters analyze gender social cultural and economic political contexts Scholars of international communication film and social sciences will find this book particularly interesting

Fighting Stars Kyle Barrowman,2024-09-05 Fighting Stars

provides a rich and diverse account of the emergence and legacies of Hong Kong martial arts cinema stars Tracing the meanings and influence of stars such as Bruce Lee Jackie Chan Michelle Yeoh Jet Li Zhang Ziyi and Donnie Yen against the shifting backdrops of the Hong Kong film industry the contributors to this important volume highlight martial arts stars cultural reach both on a local and global scale Each of the chapters written by a host of renowned international scholars focuses on an individual film star considering issues such as martial arts practices and philosophies gender and age national identities and conflicts cinematic genres and aesthetic choices in order to understand their local and transnational cultural influence

Making Believe Lisa Bode, 2017-07-07 In the past twenty years we have seen the rise of digital effects cinema in which the human performer is entangled with animation collaged with other performers or inserted into perilous or fantastic situations and scenery Making Believe sheds new light on these developments by historicizing screen performance within the context of visual and special effects cinema and technological change in Hollywood filmmaking through the silent early sound and current digital eras Making Believe incorporates North American film reviews and editorials actor and crew interviews trade and fan magazine commentary actor training manuals and film production publicity materials to discuss the shifts in screen acting practice and philosophy around transfiguring makeup doubles motion capture and acting to absent places or characters Along the way it considers how performers and visual and special effects crew work together and struggle with the industry critics and each other to define the aesthetic value of their work in an industrial system of technological reproduction Bode opens our eyes to the performing illusions we love and the tensions we experience in wanting to believe in spite of our knowledge that it is all make believe in the end

Chinese Martial Arts and Media Culture Tim Trausch, 2018-11-16 Signs and images of Chinese martial arts increasingly circulate through global media cultures As tropes of martial arts are not restricted to what is considered one medium one region or one sub genre the essays in this collection are looking across and beyond these alleged borders From 1920s wuxia cinema to the computer game cultures of the information age they trace the continuities and transformations of martial arts and media culture across time space and multiple media platforms

Race and the Animated Bodyscape Francis M. Agnoli, 2023-04-21 Race does not exist in animation it must instead be constructed and ascribed Yet over the past few years there has been growing discourse on the intersection of these two subjects within both academic and popular circles In Race and the Animated Bodyscape Constructing and Ascribing a Racialized Asian Identity in Avatar and Korra author Francis M Agnoli introduces and illustrates the concept of the animated bodyscape looking specifically at the US television series Avatar The Last Airbender and its sequel The Legend of Korra Rather than consider animated figures as unified wholes Agnoli views them as complexes of signs made up of visual aural and narrative components that complement contradict and otherwise interact with each other in the creation of meaning Every one of these components matters as they are each the result of a series of creative decisions made by various personnel across different production processes This volume re constructs production narratives

for Avatar and Korra using original and preexisting interviews with cast and crew members as well as behind the scenes material Each chapter addresses how different types of components were generated tracing their development from preliminary research to final animation In doing so this project identifies the interlocking sets of production communities behind the making of animation and thus behind the making of racialized identities Due to its illusory and constructed nature animation affords untapped opportunities to approach the topic of race in media looking beyond the role of the actor and taking into account the various factors and processes behind the production of racialized performances The analysis of race and animation calls for a holistic approach one that treats both the visual and the aural as intimately connected This volume offers a blueprint for how to approach the analysis of race and animation Mortal Kombat David Church,2022-02-17 Upon its premiere in 1992 Midway s Mortal Kombat spawned an enormously influential series of fighting games notorious for their violent fatality moves performed by photorealistic characters Targeted by lawmakers and moral reformers the series directly inspired the creation of an industrywide rating system for video games and became a referendum on the wide popularity of 16 bit home consoles Along the way it became one of the world s most iconic fighting games and formed a transmedia franchise that continues to this day This book traces Mortal Kombat s history as an American product inspired by both Japanese video games and Chinese martial arts cinema its successes and struggles in adapting to new market trends and the ongoing influence of its secret strewn narrative world After outlining the specific elements of gameplay that differentiated Mortal Kombat from its competitors in the coin op market David Church examines the various martial arts films that inspired its Orientalist imagery helping explain its stereotypical uses of race and gender He also posits the games as a cultural landmark from a moment when public policy attempted to intervene in both the remediation of cinematic aesthetics within interactive digital games and in the transition of public gaming spaces into the domestic sphere Finally the book explores how the franchise attempted to conquer other forms of media in the 1990s lost ground to a new generation of 3D games in the 2000s and has successfully rebooted itself in the 2010s to reclaim its legacy Collective Myths and Decivilizing Processes Stefan Kramer,Peter Ludes,2021-01-27 Collective myths shape and frame contemporary communication processes as well as the collective subconscious International contributors from the humanities and social sciences focus on interdependencies between collective myths and decivilizing processes in China and the United States global economics and recent technological advances They highlight long term de civilizing processes also for the globally important survival units India and Turkey and the violently contested border areas of Afghanistan and Pakistan
