Williams, 2007 In this expertly crafted richly detailed guide

Raymond Leslie Williams explores the cultural political and historical events that have shaped the Latin American and Caribbean novel since the end of World War II. In addition to works originally composed in English, Williams covers novels written in Spanish, Portuguese, French, Dutch, and Haitian Creole and traces the profound influence of modernization, revolution, and democratization on the writing of this era. Beginning in 1945, Williams introduces major trends by region, including the Caribbean and U.S. Latino novel, the Mexican and Central American novel, the Andean novel, the Southern Cone novel, and the novel of Brazil. He discusses the rise of the modernist novel in the 1940s led by Jorge Luis Borges, the reaffirmation of the right of invention, and covers the advent of the postmodern generation of the 1990s in Brazil, the Generation of the Crack in Mexico, and the McOndo generation in other parts of Latin America. An alphabetical guide offers biographies of authors, coverage of major topics, and brief introductions to individual novels. It also addresses such areas as women's writing, Afro-Latin American writing, and magic realism. The guide's final section includes an annotated bibliography of introductory studies on the Latin American and Caribbean novel, national literary traditions, and the work of individual authors. From early attempts to synthesize postcolonial concerns with modernist aesthetics to the current focus on urban violence and globalization, The Columbia Guide to the Latin American Novel Since 1945 presents a comprehensive, accessible portrait of a thoroughly diverse and complex branch of world literature.

Mourning El Dorado Charlotte Rogers,2019-06-13 What ever happened to the legend of El Dorado the tale of the mythical city of gold lost in the Amazon jungle Charlotte Rogers argues that El Dorado has not been forgotten and still inspires the reckless pursuit of illusory wealth The search for gold in South America during the colonial period inaugurated the promise of El Dorado the belief that wealth and happiness can be found in the tropical forests of the Americas That assumption has endured over the course of centuries still evident in the various modes of natural resource extraction such as oil drilling and mining that characterize the region today Mourning El Dorado looks at how fiction from the American tropics written since 1950 engages with the promise of El Dorado in the age of the Anthropocene Just as the golden kingdom was never found natural resource extraction has not produced wealth and happiness for the peoples of the tropics While extractivism enriches a few outsiders it results in environmental degradation and the subjugation displacement and forced assimilation of native peoples This book considers how the fiction of five writers Alejo Carpentier Wilson Harris Mario Vargas Llosa Ivarraro Mutis and Milton Hatoum criticizes extractive practices and mourns the lost illusion of the forest as a place of wealth and happiness had already been engaging in the modernist experiments of their North American and European counterparts since the turn of the twentieth century. Indeed, the desire to be modern is a constant preoccupation in twentieth-century Spanish American literature and thus a very useful lens through which to view the century's novels. In this pathfinding study, Raymond L. Williams offers the first complete analytical and critical overview of the Spanish American novel throughout the entire twentieth century. Using the desire to be modern as his organizing principle, he divides the century's novels into five periods and discusses the differing forms that the modern took in each era. For each period, Williams begins with a broad overview of many novels, literary contexts, and some cultural debates, followed by new readings of both canonical and significant non-canonical novels. A special feature of this book is its emphasis on women writers and other previously ignored and/or marginalized authors, including experimental and gay writers. Williams also clarifies the legacy of the Boom, the Postboom, and the Postmodern as he introduces new writers and new novelistic trends of the 1990s.
