Legenda Aurea:

The Legenda Aurea Sherry L. Reames, 1985 In the thirteenth century a young Dominican friar Jacobus de Voragine compiled the book that came to be known as the Legenda aurea a collection of medieval lore about the saints and holidays of the church Through the centuries this noted book has had a conspicuously uneven reputation enormous popularity in the late Middle Ages a precipitous decline during the Renaissance and a gradual rehabilitation in the modern era Sherry L Reames s study of the Legenda aurea offers the first comprehensive account of the book s history and of the qualities that differentiate it from earlier and less controversial works about the saints The fresh perspective introduced by this study will provide new insights and challenge old myths for historians literary critics theologians and students concerned with medieval culture and hagiography

Martyrs Karen A. Winstead, 2018-05-31 Stories of the torture and execution of beautiful Christian women first appeared in late antiquity and proliferated during the early Middle Ages A thousand years later virgin martyrs were still the most popular female saints Their legends in countless retellings through the centuries preserved a standard plot the heroine resists a pagan suitor endures cruelties inflicted by her rejected lover or outraged family works miracles and dies for Christ That sequence was embellished by incidents emblematic of the specific saint Juliana s battle with the devil Barbara s immurement in the tower Katherine s encounter with spiked wheels Karen A Winstead examines this seemingly static story form and discovers subtle shifts in the representation of the virgin martyrs as their legends were adapted for changing audiences in late medieval England Traduction Harald Kittel, Juliane House, Brigitte Schultze, 2004 This series of HANDBOOKS OF LINGUISTICS AND COMMUNICATION SCIENCE is designed to illuminate a field which not only includes general linguistics and the study of linguistics as applied to specific languages but also covers those more recent areas which have developed from the increasing body of research into the manifold forms of communicative action and interaction For classic linguistics there appears to be a need for a review of the state of the art which will provide a reference base for the rapid advances in research undertaken from a variety of theoretical standpoints while in the more recent branches of communication science the handbooks will give researchers both an overview and orientation catechetical literature It is the first volume of a planned trilogy that seeks to return late medieval Augustinian theology to the historical context of Augustinian religion Evangelium Nicodemi J. E. Cross, Denis Brearley, 1996 In the course of this book Professor Cross presents the discovery of the actual manuscript source for the Old English versions of two biblical apocrypha The Gospel of Nicodemus and The Avenging of the Saviour In collaboration with four other scholars Professor Cross explores the implications of this discovery Here parallel editions of the relevant Latin and Old English texts are given together with modern English translations and detailed discussion outlines the background to the Latin texts and to the manuscript which contains them The assembled material provides an insight not simply into the transmission of two apocryphal texts but also into the mind of the single Anglo Saxon translator who it is argued struggled in his own idiosyncratic fashion to make two badly spelt and incomplete Latin originals his own Flesh Made Word Aviad M. Kleinberg, 2008 In the fourth century a new narrative genre captured the imagination of the faithful the accounts of the lives of Christian saints Kleinberg argues that these stories were more than edifying entertainment By retelling the story of virtue and salvation by expanding the religious imagination of the West they were reshaping Christianity itself The Oxford History of Life Writing: Volume 2. Early Modern Alan Stewart, 2018-05-10 The Oxford History of Life Writing Volume 2 Early Modern explores life writing in England between 1500 and 1700 and argues that this was a period which saw remarkable innovations in biography autobiography and diary keeping that laid the foundations for our modern life writing The challenges wrought by the upheavals and the sixteenth century English Reformation and seventeenth century Civil Wars moulded British and early American life writing in unique and lasting ways While classical and medieval models continued to exercise considerable influence new forms began to challenge them The English Reformation banished the saints lives that dominated the writings of medieval Catholicism only to replace them with new lives of Protestant martyrs Novel forms of self accounting came into existence from the daily moral self accounting dictated by strands of Calvinism to the daily financial self accounting modelled on the new double entry book keeping This volume shows how the most ostensibly private journals were circulated to build godly communities how women found new modes of recording and understanding their disrupted lives how men started to compartmentalize their lives for public and private consumption The volume doesn't intend to present a strict chronological progression from the medieval to the modern nor to suggest the triumphant rise of the fact based historical biography Instead it portrays early modern England as a site of multiple sometimes conflicting possibilities for life writing all of which have something to teach us about how the period understood both the concept of a life and what it mean to write a life More Than a Memory Johan Leemans, 2005 Throughout its history persecutions and martyrdom have been Christianity's faithful companions Remarkably enough Christians have always valued martyrdom in a positive way This positive evaluation of martyrdom most certainly has to do with the absolute uncompromising nature of it The martyrs lives and deaths represent the most uncompromising of answers to the divine call The focus of the contributions in this volume is not in the first place on reconstructing the historical events of the martyr's life and death wie es eigentlich gewesen ist but on the discourse generated by this event as mediated in texts More than a Memory aims to explore the reciprocal relationship between this discourse of martyrdom and the construction of Christian identity It will do so by presenting a number of test cases in which this dynamic can be seen at work They will lead the reader through the entire history of Christianity starting with the Martyrdom of Lyons and Vienne in the second century and ending in the Latin America of the 1960 s Each article will present a test case of discourse analysis attempting to explore the issue of how a document or coherent group of documents contributed to create a distinct Christian identity Taken together the essays provide an array of examples of how martyrdom impinged on the way Christian identity has been negotiated in the Christian past In doing this the volume at the same time illustrates the sheer importance of martyrdom and the reflection and writing about it throughout the history of Christianity until today
