L'élément factuel dans le contentieux international Saïda El Boudouhi, 2013-09-12 Personne ne contestera que le juge international est autant juge du fait que juge du droit En revanche il est sans doute moins vident d'affirmer que le juge construit le fait autant qu'il construit le droit par son interprétation Partant de cette hypothèse l'auteur montre que le pouvoir normatif du juge vient se greffer sur le fait autant que sur le droit Il s'agit d'apporter un éclairage nouveau sur la fonction juridictionnelle travers le prisme du fait Le pouvoir normatif objet de l'étude est alors celui qu'exerce le juge non l'occasion de l'interprétation du droit mais au moment du traitement des faits Les opérations d'interprétation et de sélection des faits sont d'abord identifiées parallèlement la qualification juridique comme les principaux outils de traitement judiciaire des faits L'auteur recherche ensuite leur manifestation dans les différents moments du procès On découvre alors que le juge exerce son pouvoir normatif sur les faits aussi bien au moment de la preuve principalement travers le recours aux présomptions et aux experts qu'au moment de la qualification juridique des faits travers l'analyse de celle-ci c'est la place et le rôle de l'élément factuel dans le raisonnement judiciaire qui sont appréciés Il apparaît ainsi qu'il existe deux grandes catégories de faits intervenant dans le procès international les faits d'application du droit et les faits de détermination du droit L'ouvrage s'adresse toute personne s'intéressant la fonction juridictionnelle aussi bien internationale qu'interne car si les juridictions internationales sont le principal objet d'analyse certaines conclusions sont aisément transposables au juge interne Il retiendra également l'attention aussi bien de praticiens conscients de l'importance des faits dans la procédure judiciaire que d'universitaires s'interrogeant sur des aspects plus théoriques de la fonction juridictionnelle

The Law of War Ingrid Detter, 2016-03-03 The third edition of Ingrid Detter's authoritative work explores the changing legal context of modern warfare in light of events over the last decade Ingrid Detter reviews the status of non-State actors as individuals and groups become more prominent in international society Covering post 9/11 events and the resulting changes in the ethos of war the author analyses the role of military companies and examines what their legitimacy means for international society The edition also discusses certain intrinsic rules in the Law of War such as rules giving individuals the right to be spared genocide torture slavery and apartheid and assure them basic democratic rights The author questions the right of illegal combatants to be treated as prisoners of war and suggests that a minimum standard must be afforded to all whether captured dictators or detainees suspected of terrorism In the modern world the individual the soldier the civilian the dictator the terrorist or the pirate can no longer behave as they wish Further new topics include target killings the right to protect R2P claimed to be a new form of intervention the use of unregulated weapons such as drones and robots the war scenario in Outer Space and cyber crimes There is also a discussion of new developments in the field of war crimes including severe criticism of the novel concept joint criminal enterprise JCE which in the opinion of the author undermines the Rule of Law This updated and expanded edition will be of use to statesmen scholars and students of international relations and international law

The Burden of Proof in Comparative and International Human Rights Law Juliane

Kokott,2023-12-28 This book explores how courts decide or ought to decide in situations of uncertainty A Court must always decide the case before it even if the relevant facts remain unclear The question then arises which party benefits and which party is burdened by that uncertainty In these cases the Court must apply the rules on the burden of proof or more precisely the burden of persuasion Their importance for the individual claimant is obvious The comparison of two domestic systems one based on common law and the other a traditional code based legal order with regard to the issue of burden of proof helps to clarify the terminology and lays the ground for dealing with the burden of proof in international human rights law Without knowing what can be understood by the term burden of proof under domestic law international lawyers with different domestic law backgrounds are in danger of misunderstanding each other This may lead to obscuring the problems connected with court decisions involving uncertainty The study also deals with uncertainties with regard to legislative general in contrast to adjudicative individual facts and with uncertainties in the framework of predictions in contrast to uncertainties relating to historic facts It attempts to prepare the ground for dealing more consciously and more consistently with problems of uncertainty in international human rights law International courts due to their geographical and cultural distance from the case usually have less access to the underlying facts Nevertheless in order to protect human rights effectively international courts and tribunals cannot always restrict themselves to reviewing the law but may also have to decide on the facts Thus issues relating to decision making on the basis of uncertain facts including the burden of persuasion are even more important in international than in domestic human rights law
