critiques of the market and contemporary art to the funding of art education from an examination of the values that are being bought and sold to ways for artists to avoid an over engagement with the money economy and finally the relationship between art national identity and coinage

Mapping the Language of Racism Margaret Wetherell, Jonathan Potter, 1992 Divided into two parts this book reviews and criticizes sociological and psychological theoretical approaches to the topic of racism and introduces the challenges to them posed by discourse analysis It examines how white New Zealanders make sense of their own history and actions towards the Maori minority

Christianity, Modernity and Culture John Stenhouse, G. A. Wood, 2005 For much of the twentieth century New Zealand historians like most Western scholars largely took it for granted that as modernity waxed religion would wane Secularization the fading into insignificance of religion would distinguish the modern era from previous ages Until the 1980s only a handful of scholars around the world raised serious empirical and theoretical questions about a Grand Theory that had become central to the self understanding of the social sciences and of the modern world Heated debates since then and the unmistakable resurgence of world religions have raised fundamental questions about the empirical and theoretical adequacy of secularization theory and especially about how far it applies outside Europe This volume revisits New Zealand history when secularization is no longer taken for granted as the Only Big Story that illuminates the country's social and cultural history Contributors explore how New Zealanders diverse religious and spiritual traditions have shaped practical everyday concerns in politics racial and ethnic relations science the environment family life gender relations and other domains

Missions of Interdependence, 2021-11-01 At the beginning of the twenty first century it is necessary to combine into a productive programme the striving for individual emancipation and the social practice of humanism in order to help the world survive both the ancient pitfalls of particularist terrorism and the levelling tendencies of cultural indifference engendered by the renewed imperialist arrogance of hegemonial global capital In this book thirty five scholars address and negotiate in a spirit of learning and understanding an exemplary variety of intercultural splits and fissures that have opened up in the English speaking world Their methodology can be seen to constitute a seminal field of intellectual signposts They point out ways and means of responsibly assessing colonial predicaments and postcolonial developments in six regions shaped in the past by the British Empire and still associated today through their allegiance to the idea of a Commonwealth of Nations They show how a new ethic of literary self assertion interpretative mediation and critical responsiveness can remove the deeply ingrained prejudices silences and taboos established by discrimination against race class and gender

New Zealand Brad Patterson, Kathryn Patterson, 1998 For many years New Zealand was stereotyped as a sleepy hollow of the South Pacific but more recently it has had an influence in international affairs which belies its size Noted more for its conservatism and stability its green fields and sheep than for its innovation and radicalism this most geographically isolated of English speaking countries took pride in its role as a provider of agricultural produce for Europe History, Historians and the Immigration Debate Eureka Henrich, Julian M. Simpson, 2018-10-13 This book is a response to the binary thinking and misuse of history that characterize contemporary immigration debates Subverting the traditional injunction directed at migrants to go back to where they came from it highlights the importance of the past to contemporary discussions around migration It argues that historians have a significant contribution to make in this respect and shows how this can be done with chapters from scholars in Asia Europe Australasia and North America Through their work on global transnational and national histories of migration an alternative view emerges one that complicates our understanding of 21st century migration and reasserts movement as a central dimension of the human condition History Historians and the Immigration Debate makes the case for historians to assert themselves more confidently as expert commentators offering a reflection on how we write migration history today and the forms it might take in the future Burden or Benefit? Helen Gilbert, Chris Tiffin, 2008-03-12 Essays on philanthropy power and the continuing influence of the British Empire on humanitarian efforts in today's world In the name of benevolence philanthropy and humanitarian aid individuals groups and nations have sought to assist others and to redress forms of suffering and deprivation Yet the inherent imbalances of power between the giver and the recipient of this benevolence have called into question the motives and rationale for such assistance This volume examines the evolution of the ideas and practices of benevolence chiefly in the context of British imperialism from the late eighteenth century to the present The authors consider more than a dozen examples of practical and theoretical benevolence from the anti slavery movement of the late eighteenth century to such modern activities as refugee asylum in Europe opposition to female genital mutilation in Africa fundraising for charities and restoring the wetlands in post Saddam southern Iraq The Oxford History of New Zealand Literature in English Terry Sturm, 1991 The first comprehensive history of New Zealand literature this volume includes chapters on the novel poetry and the short story as well as sections on drama non fiction children's literature popular literature and the history of publishing patronage and literary magazines While it features major authors this history also contains information on little known authors and forgotten periods in New Zealand's literary history providing more comprehensive information on the subject than has ever appeared in a single volume before Bulletin, 1996

Ethnocentrism and the English Dictionary Phil Benson, 2002-01-08 This unique work challenges the assumption that dictionaries act as objective records of our language and instead argues that the English dictionary is a fundamentally ethnocentric work Using theoretical historical and empirical analyses Phil Benson shows how English dictionaries have filtered knowledge through predominantly Anglo American perspectives The book includes a major case study of the most recent edition of the Oxford English Dictionary and its treatment of China The Journal of Commonwealth Literature, 1989

Issues for 1965 include section Annual bibliography of Commonwealth literature 1964
