

Kubla Khan

BY LEWIS TAYLOR COLERIDGE

On a vision in a dream. A Fragment.

In Xanadu did Kubla Khan
A stately pleasure-dome decree:
Where Alph, the sacred river, ran
Through caverns measureless to man
Down to a sunless sea,
So twice five miles of fertile ground
With walls and towers were girdled round;
And there were gardens bright with sinuous rills,
Where blossomed many an incense-bearing tree;
And here were forests ancient as the hills,
Embroidering sunny spots of greenery.

But oh! that deep romantic chasm which dammed
Down the green hill athwart a velvet coast!
A mighty place! as holy and enchanted,
As e'er beneath a waning moon was haunted
By woman wailing for her demon-lover!
And from this chasm, with ceaseless turmoil seething,
As if this earth in fast thick pants were breathing,
A mighty fountain momently was forced:
Amid whose swift half-intermingled streams
Huge fragments vaulted like rebounding hail,
Or chaffy grain beneath the thresher's flail,
And mid these dancing racks of smoke and steam
It flung up momently the sacred steam.

Five miles monstering with a mazy motion
Through wood and dale the sacred river ran,
Then reached the cavern measureless to man,
And sank in tumult to a lifeless ocean;
And 'mid this tumult Kubla heard from far
Ancestral voices prophesying war!
The shadow of the dome of pleasure
Floated midway on the waves;
Where was heard the mingled measure
From the fountain and the caves.
It was a miracle of rare device,
A sunny pleasure-dome with caves of ice!

A damsel with a dulcimer
In a vision once I saw:
It was an Abyssinian maid
And on her dulcimer she played,
Singing of Mount Abora,
Could I revive within me
Her symphony and song,
To such a deep delight 'twould win me,
That with music loud and long,
I would build that dome in air,
That sunny dome! those caves of ice!
And all who heard should see them there,
And all should cry, Beware! Beware!
His flashing eyes, his floating hair!
Weave a circle round him thrice,
And close your eyes with holy dread
For he on honey-dew hath fed,
And drunk the milk of Paradise.

forests and the sacred river Alph The speaker uses the word sublime to describe the scenery implying that there is something extraordinary about it In this new addition Kubla Khan leaves the confines of his castle to find a place of unparalleled splendor where nature reigns supreme Mountains rivers and the rumbling of the wind and rain all appear before his eyes He expands his horizons and rules his kingdom with more compassion and a bigger picture in mind The original poem is notorious for its sudden ending which leaves readers wondering what happened next Kubla Khan s legacy is not in the palace he built but in the thoughts and hopes he concocted and I continue the subject of delving beyond the known in this new segment The author suggests we take inspiration from our past selves and let our vivid memories of imagination lead the way to the wonders that lay beyond

Coleridge and Shelley Sally West,2016-05-23 Sally West s timely study is the first book length exploration of Coleridge s influence on Shelley s poetic development Beginning with a discussion of Shelley s views on Coleridge as a man and as a poet West argues that there is a direct correlation between Shelley s desire for political and social transformation and the way in which he appropriates the language imagery and forms of Coleridge often transforming their original meaning through subtle readjustments of context and emphasis While she situates her work in relation to recent concepts of literary influence West is focused less on the psychology of the poets than on the poetry itself She explores how elements such as the development of imagery and the choice of poetic form often learnt from earlier poets are intimately related to poetic purpose Thus on one level her book explores how the second generation Romantic poets reacted to the beliefs and ideals of the first while on another it addresses the larger question of how poets become poets by returning the work of one writer to the literary context from which it developed Her book is essential reading for specialists in the Romantic period and for scholars interested in theories of poetic influence Kubla Khan Samuel Taylor

Coleridge, Barbara Hodgson, Nick Bantock, Dennis K. Wheeler, 1981 Five of Coleridge's major poems are given fresh scrutiny in this arresting study One of its unusual features is the attention given the Preface to Kubla Khan the Gloss to The Ancient Mariner and other prose accompaniments to the poems usually dismissed as extraneous Devices such as these the author argues are strategically employed by Coleridge in an effort to engage the reader in a fully imaginative response Kathleen Wheeler elucidates the texts in terms of aesthetic experience and also in terms of the philosophical principles that inform them showing how Coleridge's theories of mind and imagination function within the poems and shape their design A subtle and gifted reader of poetry she enriches our understanding of poems we thought we knew well and provides insights along the way into the creative process
