crime Stacy Horn sheds light on how the subprime mortgage scandal of the 1970s and a long history of white collar crime slowly devastated East New York a Brooklyn neighborhood that would come to be known as the Killing Fields On a warm summer evening in 1991 seventeen year old Julia Parker was murdered in the Brooklyn neighborhood of East New York An area known for an exorbitant level of violence and crime East New York had come to be known as the Killing Fields In the six months after Julia Parker s death 62 more people were murdered in the same area In the early 1990s murder rates in the neighborhood climbed to the highest in NYPD history East New York was dying But how did this once thriving diverse family neighborhood fall into such ruin The answer can be found two decades earlier In response to redlining and discriminatory housing practices the Johnson administration passed the Housing and Urban Development Act in 1968 The Federal Housing Authority aimed to use this piece of legislation to help low income families of color finally achieve homeownership But they could never have predicted how banks lenders realtors and corrupt FHA officials themselves would use the newly passed law to make victims of the very people they were supposed to help and the devastation they would leave in their wake A compulsively readable hybrid of true crime and investigative journalism The Killing Fields of East New York reveals how white collar crime reduced a prospering neighborhood to abandoned buildings and empty lots Following the dual threads of the hunt for the network of criminals behind the first subprime mortgage scandal and the ensuing downfall of East New York Stacy Horn weaves a compelling narrative of government failure a desperate community and ultimately the largest series of mortgage fraud prosecutions in American history The Killing Fields of East New York deftly demonstrates how different types of crime are profoundly entangled and how the crimes committed in nice suits and corner offices are just as destructive as those committed on the street
