Phantom Formations Marc Redfield,2018-03-15 Marc Redfield maintains that the literary genre of the Bildungsroman brings into sharp focus the contradictions of aesthetics and also that aesthetics exemplifies what is called ideology He combines a wide ranging account of the history and theory of aesthetics with close readings of novels by Goethe George Eliot and Gustave Flaubert For Redfield these fictions of character formation demonstrate the paradoxical relation between aesthetics and literature the notion of the Bildungsroman may be expanded to apply to any text that can be figured as a subject producing itself in history which is to say any text whatsoever At the same time the category may be contracted to include only a handful of novels or even none at all a paradox that has led critics to denigrate the Bildungsroman as a phantom genre

Reading the Written Image Christopher Collins, 2011-04-30 Reading the Written Image is a study of the imagination as it is prompted by the verbal cues of literature Since every literary image is also a mental image a representation of an absent entity Collins contends that imagination is a poesis a making up an act of play for both author and reader The willing suspension of disbelief which Coleridge said constitutes poetic faith therefore empowers and directs the reader to construct an imagined world in which particular hypotheses are proposed and demonstrated Although the imagination as a central concept in poetics emerges into critical debate only in the eighteenth century it has been a crucial issue for over two millennia in religious philosophical and political discourse The two recognized alternative methodologies in the study of literature the poetic and the hermeneutic are opposed on the issue of the written image poets and readers feel free to imagine while hermeneuts feel obliged to specify the meanings of images and failing that to minimize the importance of imagery Recognizing this problem Collins proposes that reading written texts be regarded as a performance a unique kind of play that transposes what had once been an oral dramatic situation onto an inner imaginary stage He applies models drawn from the psychology of play to support his theory that reader response is essentially a poetic response to a rule governed set of ludic cues

Spectrality in Modernist Fiction Stephen Ross, 2023-06-14 Spectrality in Modernist Fiction argues that key modernist writers chiefly Conrad Forster Butts and Bowen use spectral rhetoric to tackle problems of sex and sexuality revolution imperialism capitalism and desire all through complicated ethical engagements These engagements invariably come packaged in and are shaped by the language of spectrality In its capacity to articulate a particular sort of relationship between the past the present and the future the spectral concerns the basic question of how to proceed how to live with maybe even address ethical indeterminacy Whether their spectral rhetoric traces the logics of capitalist possession Conrad queer friendship and paganized Christianity Forster regressive politics haunted by historical traumas Butts or the devious passages of perverse desire Bowen these writers locate something like hope in their ghosts The ethical and political impasses they chart through their spectral rhetoric are not final but temporary and the drive to overcome them constitutes a tensile optimism

Death Be Not Proud David Marno, 2016-12-21 The seventeenth century French philosopher Nicolas Malebranche thought that philosophy could learn a valuable lesson from prayer which teaches us how to attend wait and be open for what might happen next Death Be Not Proud explores the precedents of Malebranche's advice by reading John Donne's poetic prayers in the context of what David Marno calls the art of holy attention If in Malebranche's view attention is a hidden bond between religion and philosophy devotional poetry is the area where this bond becomes visible Marno shows that in works like Death be not proud Donne's most triumphant poem about the resurrection the goal is to allow the poem's speaker to experience a given doctrine as his own thought as an idea occurring to him But while the thought must feel like an unexpected event for the speaker the poem itself is a careful preparation for it And the key to this preparation is attention the only state in which the speaker can perceive the doctrine as a cognitive gift Along the way Marno illuminates why attention is required in Christian devotion in the first place and uncovers a tradition of battling distraction that spans from ascetic thinkers and Church Fathers to Catholic spiritual exercises and Protestant prayer manuals His Father's Ghost Maisie Sharman Bolton, 1963 A Journey into Accounting Thought Louis Goldberg, 2001-07-12 This book explores the role of accountants in business and society The final work of Louis Goldberg Professor Emeritus at the University of Melbourne it aims to raise awareness of the existence and importance of fundamental issues that are often ignored or by passed in contemporary discussion of accounting The sixteen chapters assess exactly wh Unraveling French Cinema T.
