Jennifer C. James,2012-09-01 In the first comprehensive study of African American war literature Jennifer James analyzes fiction poetry autobiography and histories about the major wars waged before the desegregation of the U S military in 1948 Examining literature about the Civil War the Spanish American Wars World War I and World War II James introduces a range of rare and understudied texts by writers such as Victor Daly F Grant Gilmore William Gardner Smith and Susie King Taylor She argues that works by these as well as canonical writers such as William Wells Brown Paul Laurence Dunbar and Gwendolyn Brooks mark a distinctive contribution to African American letters In establishing African American war literature as a long standing literary genre in its own right James also considers the ways in which this writing centered as it is on moments of national crisis complicated debates about black identity and African Americans claims to citizenship In a provocative assessment James argues that the very ambivalence over the use of violence as a political instrument defines African American war writing and creates a compelling contradictory body of literature that defies easy summary

Carroll,2011-11-14 My non fiction is primarily drawn from childhood memories of Yulan New York a hamlet in Sullivan County during the late 1950s and early 60s They are anchored in a clarity dictated by subjects illustrating and implying specific points I consider writing an important and responsible act part skill part art but always an enjoyable activity as seen through the lens of time and memory In reading fiction I have always been most interested in character driven as opposed to plot driven stories Consequently my written fictive efforts generally reflect this preference My characters are drawn both from my experience as well as from my imagination Their conflicts characteristics as well as the way they speak act and see themselves stem from experience and imagination as well These characters are generally hybrids of more than one person either female or male often functioning in their everyday environments Some are soldiers lawyers police officers teachers photographers painters functioning within varied settings from urban to rural often reflecting a blue collar nuance and culture The plots of my stories function to support the stories that the characters tell the natural friction between daughters mothers fathers sons brothers sisters husbands and wives generally complicated by changes in their livessometimes major other times minor that cause them to confront those around them as well as themselves From philandering spouses to selfish incompetent or overindulgent parents or individuals who discover that their lives must change These plots linear as well as cyclical reflect the human drama of strength weakness doubt certainty moral choices and consequences love hate fear hope anxiety despair and happiness She stepped over the puddles and around the mud along the driveway to the mailbox by the rutted road out front Efforts like this along with things like thunder and lightning storms which terrified her as well as woodchucks and raccoons prowling around all night which kept her on edge reminded her that she was not a country person Still for the last few weeks the culmination of months of study their place in Manhattan hadn't worked She had needed the tranquility of this remote house in the Catskills where she had spent her summer tomboy childhood Franca walked slowly back to the house and retraced her footprints as she flipped through the handful of mail One return address New York State Certification and Licensing Unit caught her attention and she tore it open with her finger From Black Still Water She climbs the three steps in front of the local high school and remembers sitting on the wide stone slabs coffee in one hand a cigarette in the other waiting for her little girl to finish her dancing class on countless Saturday mornings but the memory quickly disintegrates when she opens the large steel door and it clangs shut after her The escaping music is deafening vibrations pound against her chest and in the sudden overpowering darkness she finds it hard to breathe Slowly her eyes adjust and she makes out the dancing figures through the white smoke generated from behind the jungle of gigantic speakers and amplifiers off in the distance She hugs the wall inches her way along searching and her breathing slowly returns to normal From Dancer Standing by the sink looking out over the lake Jaime listens to the sounds floating up from the basement work noises the hammer striking nails home one two three four occasionally punctuated by the high pitched whine of the power saw and the slap of discarded wood as it falls to the tile floor All day he works non stop framing it out refusing lunch a couple of hours ago and now it is almost three in the afternoon Tonight after working a four to twelve at the uti

World War II in Andreï Makine's Historiographic Metafiction Helena Duffy, 2018-04-17 Can it be ever possible to write about war in a work of fiction asks a protagonist of one of Makine's strongly metafictional and intensely historical novels Helena Duffy's World War II in Andre Makine's Historiographic Metafiction redirects this question at the Franco Russian author's fiction itself by investigating its portrayal of Soviet involvement in the struggle against Hitler To write back into the history of the Great Fatherland War its unmourned

Franklin and Eleanor Roosevelt in Albany Michael J. Burgess, 2023 Franklin and Eleanor Roosevelt changed America with a government on the side of the people that put Americans back to work and inspired confidence that the nation could overcome the Great Depression This is the story of their progressive legacy when FDR was Governor during the era of Prohibition and the advent of radio in the Roaring Twenties a decade that ended with the Great Depression upending life for most Americans This is the story of how as Governor of New York he tried the programs that became the New Deal that transformed America It was the place where his warm easily relatable voice heard on the radio for the first time created a bond of trust with the public that inspired confidence at a time of great fear Author Michael J Burgess reveals the often overlooked history of Franklin and Eleanor Roosevelt in Albany at the helm of the Empire State
