International Design Organizations Jeremy Aynsley, Alison J. Clarke, Tania Messell, 2022-01-13 This innovative volume brings together international design scholars to address the history and present day status of national and international design organizations working across design disciplines and located in countries including Argentina Turkey Estonia Switzerland Italy China and the USA In the second half of the 20th century many non governmental organizations were created to address urgent cultural economic and welfare issues Design organizations set out to create an international consensus for the future direction of design This included enhancing communication between professionals educators and practitioners raising standards for design and creating communities of designers across linguistic national and political borders Shared needs and agendas were identified and categories of design constantly defined and re defined often with overt cultural and political intents Drawing on an impressive range of original research archival sources and oral testimony this volume questions the aims and achievements of national and international design organizations in light of their subsequent histories and their global remit The Cold War period is central to the book while many chapters draw on post colonial perspectives to interpret how transnational networks and negotiations took place at events and congresses and through publication to reach an understanding of Rodolfo Usigli's theater as a whole through the analysis of a dozen of his most representative pieces. The chapters are grouped according to type: political satire, political fantasy, social drama, psychological drama, historical themes, and the universal dimension. Illustrated.

A Theatre for Cannibals Peter R. Beardsell, 1992 This work attempts

Trail of Footprints Alex Hidalgo, 2019-07-12. Trail of Footprints offers an intimate glimpse into the commission, circulation, and use of indigenous maps from colonial Mexico. A collection of sixty largely unpublished maps from the late sixteenth to the eighteenth centuries, made in the southern region of Oaxaca, anchors an analysis of the way ethnically diverse societies produced knowledge in colonial settings. Mapmaking proposed by Hidalgo formed part of an epistemological shift tied to the negotiation of land and natural resources between the region's Spanish, Indian, and mixed-race communities. The craft of making maps drew from social memory, indigenous and European conceptions of space, and ritual, and Spanish legal practices designed to adjust spatial boundaries in the New World. Indigenous mapmaking brought together a distinct coalition of social actors: Indian leaders, native towns, notaries, surveyors, judges, artisans, merchants, muleteers, collectors, and painters who participated in the critical observation of the region's geographic features. Demand for maps reconfigured technologies associated with the making of colorants, adhesives, and paper that drew from Indian botany and experimentation transatlantic commerce and Iberian notarial culture. The maps in this study reflect a regional perspective associated with Oaxaca's decentralized organization, its strategic position amidst a network of important trade routes that linked central Mexico to Central America, and the ruggedness and diversity of its physical landscape.

Playing in the Cathedral Jesús A. Ramos-Kittrell, 2016. This work explores how cathedral musicians in eighteenth-century Mexico City relied on music and on their institutional affiliation to define their social place. In the tensions that brewed within New Spain's racial casta or caste system, people of mixed race increasingly competed for Spanish benefits and prerogatives.

Mexican National Cinema Andrea Noble, 2005. Mexican National Cinema provides a thorough and detailed account of the vital and complex relationship between cinema and national identity in Mexico. From Amores Perros and Y Tu Mama Tambien, this book delves into the development of Mexican cinema from the intense cultural nationalism of the Mexican Revolution through the Golden Age of the 1930s and 1940s, and the nuevo cine of the 1960s to the renaissance in Mexican cinema in the 1990s. Individual chapters discuss the relationship with Hollywood cinema, the stars of the Golden Age, the role of foreign authors in the founding of Mexican cinema, tensions in the industry in the 1960s, national and international reception of contemporary film, and film makers. Examining the portrayal of Mexican nationhood through critical analysis of film genres, including revolutionary films, machismo and mexicanidad, the prostitute, and the work of female authors, Mexican National Cinema is an excellent addition to all media, film, and cultural studies students.
