Crafting Preservation

Criteria John H. Sprinkle, Jr.,2014-03-05 In 1966 American historic preservation was transformed by the passage of the National Historic Preservation Act which created a National Register of Historic Places Now comprising more than 1 4 million historic properties across the country the National Register is the official federal list of places in the United States thought to be worthy of preservation One of the fundamental principles of the National Register is that every property is evaluated according to a standard set of criteria that provide the framework for understanding why a property is significant in American history. The origins of these criteria are important because they provide the threshold for consideration by a broad range of federal preservation programs from planning for continued adaptive use to eligibility for grants and inclusion in heritage tourism and educational programs. Crafting Preservation Criteria sets out these preservation criteria for students explaining how they got added to the equation and elucidating the test cases that allowed for their use. From artworks to churches from the fifty year rule to the historic scene students will learn how places have been historically evaluated to be placed on the National Register and how the criteria evolved over time. SAVING PLACES THAT MATTER Thomas F King, 2007 Tom King renowned expert on the heritage preservation process explains to preservationists and other community activists the ins and outs of Section 106 of the National Historic Preservation Act and how it can be used to protect special places in your community.

Buying Time for Heritage J. Myrick Howard, 2023-10-03 What does it take to save endangered historic properties? This practical guide builds on decades of historic preservation experience to provide readers with legal financial political and technical tools and strategies to be more effective preservationists. Myrick Howard makes clear that large sums of money are not necessarily needed to save endangered historic properties but knowledge and passion are essential. This book shows how preservation minded neighbors and organizations can succeed with only modest resources and rather than clash with developers can become developers themselves for community benefit. Howard draws on case studies from forty five years of successful work leading Preservation North Carolina with lessons that are applicable coast to coast. This richly illustrated fully revised and redesigned second edition includes detailed projects to renovate vacant houses in working class neighborhoods reflections on addressing racial equity through preservation an expanded section on using preservation easements and summaries of revolving fund programs around the country.
