This is a synopsis and review of the major rivers of the world Palm Microfungi Jane Fröhlich, Kevin D. Hyde, 2000 The study of ascomycetes especially in the tropics is problematic because literature is scattered throughout numerous journals and is often very difficult to obtain This book describes ascomycetes on palms following a study in Australia Brunei and Hong Kong Many ascomycetes genera are reviewed and more than 50 new species are described Species are illustrated with numerous light micro graphs Many of the genera included are not confined to palms and it is hoped that this book will provide a basis for studying and identifying genera of temperate and tropical fungi We hope that mycologists can use this book and enjoy studying microfungi without the frustrations of lacking literature Anthrozoology Geoff Hosey, Vicky Melfi, 2018-11-30 Anthrozoology the study of human animal interactions HAIs has experienced substantial growth during the past 20 years and it is now timely to synthesise what we know from empirical evidence about our relationships with both domesticated and wild animals Two principal points of focus have become apparent in much of this research One is the realisation that the strength of these attachments not only has emotional benefits for people but confers health benefits as well such that a whole area has opened up of using companion animals for therapeutic purposes The other is the recognition that the interactions we have with animals have consequences for their welfare too and thus impact on their quality of life Consequently we now study HAIs in all scenarios in which animals come into contact with humans whether as pets companions farm livestock laboratory animals animals in zoos or in the wild This topical area of study is of growing importance for animals in animal management animal handling animal welfare and applied ethology courses and also for people within psychology anthropology and human geography at both the undergraduate and postgraduate level It will therefore be of interest to students researchers and animal managers across the whole spectrum of human animal contact
