The Nation, 1921 What's the Matter with Ireland? Ruth Russell, 2019-12-17 In What's the Matter with Ireland Ruth Russell embarks on an incisive exploration of Ireland's socio-political landscape navigating the intricate interplay of history, culture, and identity. Employing a luminous prose style infused with vivid imagery and poignant insights, Russell investigates the weight of historical injustices, contemporary societal challenges, and the complex legacy of colonialism. This work stands as a critical commentary within the framework of modern Irish literature, reverberating with themes of dislocation, resilience, and recovery amid periods of tumult. Ruth Russell, a distinguished scholar and passionate advocate for social justice, draws on her rich background in Irish studies and her personal experiences with Ireland's multifaceted identity. Her academic pursuits, underscored by a commitment to amplifying marginalized voices, inform her nuanced approach to discussing pressing issues. Russell's deep-seated connection to Irish heritage fuels her desire to engage readers in a dialogue about the nation's past and future, inviting reflection on the collective memory that shapes national consciousness. This compelling narrative is a must-read for anyone seeking to understand the contemporary Irish condition. Whether you are a scholar, a student, or simply a curious reader, Russell's work stimulates critical thought and empathy, making it an essential addition to the discourse on modern Ireland.

Overlooking the River Mourne Michael Cox, 2006 The close ties between the people and the land in Ulster have only within the last two generations been replaced by a more urban, modern lifestyle. This study of the farms and farming families on two thousand acres of hilly terrain in two adjacent townlands, Edymore and Cavanlee, south east of Strabane, overlooking the River Mourne, is a model in local studies. The story is based on research in one of the greatest collections of estate records in Britain or Ireland, the Abercorn Papers in the Public Record Office of Northern Ireland. Before 1600 the land belonged to the great O'Neill clan. After the Plantation it was granted to the Abercorn family, and the land divided into small farms, and over the ensuing centuries the farmers created well-run and profitable mixed farms. At the beginning of the twentieth century families at last had the chance to own the land their forebears had as tenants tilled for generations. Some farms expanded, some stayed the same size, what links them all is that the family unit remained as the cement that held them together and bound them to the land. The development of the farms and the lives of four of the longest surviving families are retraced in absorbing detail, so too is the social fabric which linked town and country. Strabane, less than an hour's walk away, was a focal point for markets, education, and social activities. The writer's own family connections with the townlands over the last fifty years provide the homely touch that gives this book such a distinctive charm. Books Ireland, 1994
