two army officers could wear three and members of the royal family could wear seven A law passed by Emperor Aurelian stated that men couldn't wear shoes that were red yellow green or white and that only the emperor and his sons could wear red or purple shoes A variety of other laws limited how much people could spend on parties and how many people they could invite In this book Emanuela Zanda explores the purposes behind the enactment of such legislation in Rome during the Republic She engages with the historical literary polemic against luxury and focuses on government intervention in matters of extravagance by taking into consideration not only sumptuary laws but also other measures that dealt with self indulgence She addresses and answers a number of questions about what exactly the ruling class was trying to achieve about its real motivations and about the significance of the ideological discourse surrounding the enactment of these laws
