dragon et s'enfermèrent à double tour dans leur propre prison.

Le dragon ne s'aperçut même pas de l'affolement et de la confusion qu'il semait sur son passage. Il descendit lentement et se posa dans la pépinière de Taff. Celle-ci, comme tous les habitants de Gard, cherchait une cachette. La seule chose qu'elle trouva fut une brouette. Elle plongea derrière l'outil et posa un pot de fleurs sur sa tête. Pendant ce temps, Buccoleon respirait les fleurs lentement, à pleins poumons.

« C'est tellement beau ! » s'exclama-t-il.

Puis, avec précaution, il s'installa sur le sol dans la pépinière et pleura — mais, cette fois, il versait des larmes de joie et non de tristesse.

Hors des murs de la pépinière, la cité de Gard était entièrement désertée. Tout être sensé se cachait. Seuls quelques courageux (ou fous) s'étaient emparés d'armes — surtout des arcs et des flèches, des haches et des lances. Un homme avait même déniché quelque part une défense de morse. Dans l'espoir de tuer le monstre, cette bande de chasseurs intrépides se dirigea vers la pépinière.

that French children's literature transmits to readers today Using an interdisciplinary mixed methods approach this book grounds its literary analysis in a sociohistorical examination of three key institutions libraries book clubs and subscription magazines that circulate reading material to children It shows how French policies cultural beliefs and market forces influence the content of children s literature including tensions between State support for unprofitable artistic endeavors and a belief in children s right to high quality products on the one hand and suspicion of activism as anathema to creativity and fear of losing boy readers on the other In addition the notion of universalism which asserts that equality is best achieved when society is blind to differences thwarts a diverse and equitable array of literary representations Nevertheless conditions are favorable for 21st century French children s publishers to offer a robust body of richly entertaining egalitarian literature for children This title is freely available as open access thanks to generous support from the Fondren Library at Rice University Histoire des idées aéronautiques avant Montgolfier Jules Duhem,1943 Histoire des animaux d'Aristote,
