Strengthening Teaching and Learning in Research

Universities Bjørn Stensaker, Grahame T. Bilbow, Lori Breslow, Rob van der Vaart, 2017-07-13 This book offers a range of approaches and specific examples of how a sample of internationally leading research intensive universities from a variety of regions around the world work to improve teaching and learning It describes and analyzes broad university initiatives and approaches that have the potential of driving institution wide change processes in teaching and learning thus providing a link between strategic ambitions and cultural transformation in the universities Globally research intensive universities are increasingly pressured to increase their performance in both research and education However while much focus internationally has been devoted to how universities are working to boost their research performance less is known about how internationally leading universities are working to improve teaching and learning Through comparative cases drawn from universities in Europe Asia and the US key practices and lessons are identified and showcased providing a unique insight into the ways internationally leading research universities work to support and enhance staff engagement in teaching and learning It will be essential reading for researchers and advanced students working in Higher Education and Sociology particularly those with an interest in comparative studies

Learning from Research

Judith Bell, Clive Opie, 2002-06-16 How do I begin to plan my research How can I be sure that I am collecting useful data and analysing it appropriately Do I need a sophisticated understanding of statistics in order to carry out high quality research If these are questions which concern you then you will find great support in this reassuring and down to earth book It tells the story of five postgraduate researchers on their journey to successful completion of Master of Education or PhD degrees Four of the five were new to research had demanding full time jobs and so were researching part time and at a distance All four undertook quantitative studies and even though two of them claimed to be afraid of stats at the beginning they all succeeded in producing quality theses The fifth researcher had previous relevant research experience and had an award which enabled her to carry out a full time qualitative investigation at doctoral level All five faced sharp learning curves at various times but they learnt from their experiences as we all do They discuss very openly some of the mistakes they made the lessons they learnt and with hindsight how they might have done things differently A comprehensive glossary key quotations in boxes and detailed annotated further reading combined with a straightforward writing style make this an invaluable text for any researcher
