Men on the Rocks Michel Mouton, Stephan Gerhard Schmid, Stephan G. Schmid, 2013 Petra in modern southern Jordan is universally known as one of the most frequented touristic sites in the Near East inscribed on the UNESCO world heritage list Modern visitors are attracted by the romantic aspect of the rock cut tomb facades heavily contrasting in their baroque style with the desert like surrounding of the rocky and arid landscape These monuments were the result of the long time presence of the Arab tribe of the Nabataeans who made Petra their capital when they became at least partially sedentarised during the Hellenistic period i.e. between the late 4th to late 1st centuries BCE. How exactly this process of sedentarisation happened, how the site of Petra changed from a temporary dwelling place of a small Bedouin tribe to one of the blinking capitals of the ancient Near East that attracted as it is the case today visitors from all over the world was the subject of a three years research program jointly sponsored by the French Agence Nationale de la Recherche ANR and the German Research Foundation DFG. At the end of the program an international conference held in Berlin in December 2011 brought together several dozen of scholars from all over the world in order to pinpoint the state of research on the Formation of the Nabataean capital. The contributions of the present volume focus on questions related to the natural environment of the site on the geology and geography as well as on architecture, small finds and social dynamics, probably the clue for a better understanding of the functioning of the Nabataean kingdom and its capital Petra.

Blue Book of Optometrists and Opticians, 1926 Blue Book of Dorchester 1902, 1902 American Horse Show Blue Book, 1903 Roman Conquests: Egypt & Judaea John D. Grainger, 2013-07-16

Egypt was the last of the Macedonian Successor states to be swallowed up by Roman expansion. The Ptolemaic rulers had allied themselves to Rome while their rivals went down fighting. However, Cleopatra's famous love affair with Marc Antony ensured she was on the wrong side of the Roman civil war between him and Octavian, later to become Caesar Augustus. After the defeat of Antony and Cleopatra at the naval battle of Actium, Octavian swiftly brought Egypt under direct Roman control, though it took several campaigns to fully subjugate the whole country. These campaigns have previously been largely neglected. Judaea was a constant source of trouble for the Romans as it had been for the Seleucids, the previous overlords of the region. The Romans at first were content to rule through client kings like the infamous Herod but were increasingly sucked in to direct military involvement to suppress religiously inspired revolts. John Grainger's clear narrative and insightful analysis of these campaigns allows the reader to understand how Rome eventually brought this strategically vital region fully within their empire.
