had its origins in the second Theoretical Roman Archaeology Conference held in 1992 at Bradford which followed the ethos of the first conference an essentially egalitarian arena for discussion of and fighting over the introduction and application of theory in Roman archaeology Accepting the need for explicit awareness of theory in Roman archaeology the contributors get on with the business of showing how a wide variety of perspectives and intellectual approaches offer new insights or alternative interpretations of a range of data This the second volume on theoretical Roman archaeology surely demonstrates not only the enthusiasm generated by new ideas but something of the intellectual rigour required to use them Between and Death in Roman Carlisle Matthew S. Hobson, 2024-11-28 Finds from a Roman cremation cemetery in Carlisle offer an important study of burials and identity in the region Excavated graves including rare richly furnished burials reveal cultural ties to the Nervii of Gallia Belgica and suggest a Nervian presence in early Roman Carlisle linked to military recruitment and local pottery production Roman Finds Richard Hingley, Steven Willis, 2007-04-10

Studies on finds in Roman Britain and the Western Provinces have come to greater prominence in the literature of recent years The quality of such work has also improved and is now theoretically informed and based on rich data sets Work on finds over the last decade or two has changed our understanding of the Roman era in profound ways and yet despite such encouraging advances and such clear worth there has to date been little in the way of a dedicated forum for the presentation and evaluation of current approaches to the study of material culture The conference at which these papers were initially presented has gone some way to redressing this and these papers bring the very latest studies on Roman finds to a wider audience Twenty papers are here presented covering various themes Dolaucothi-Pumsaint Barry C. Burnham, Helen B. Burnham, 2004

This volume reports on a series of archaeological investigations carried out in the vicinity of Dolaucothi in south west Wales the location of the only site in Britain where the Romans are known to have mined for gold Excavations at Chester. The Northern and

Agriculture and Industry in South-Eastern Roman Britain David Bird, 2016-12-31 The ancient counties surrounding the Weald in the SE corner of England have a strongly marked character of their own that has survived remarkably well in the face of ever increasing population pressure The area is however comparatively neglected in discussion of Roman Britain where it is often subsumed into a generalised treatment of the civilian part of Britannia that is based largely on other parts of the country This book aims to redress the balance The focus is particularly on Kent Surrey and Sussex account is taken of information from neighboring counties particularly when the difficult subsoils affect the availability of evidence An overview of the environment and a consideration of themes relevant to the South East as a whole accompany 14 papers covering the topics of rural settlement in each county crops querns and millstones animal exploitation salt production leatherworking the working of bone and similar materials the production of iron and iron objects non ferrous metalworking pottery production and the supply of tile to Roman London Agriculture and industry provides an up to date assessment of our knowledge of the southern hinterland of Roman London and an area that was particularly open to influences from the Continent

Kale Akte, the Fair Promontory Adam Lindhagen, 2020-10-31 This volume investigates the interaction between the natural environment market forces and political entities in an ancient Sicilian town and its surrounding micro region over the time span of a thousand years Focusing on the ancient polis of Kale Akte Caronia and the surrounding Nebrodi area on the north coast of Sicily the book examines the city s archaeology and history from a broad geographical and cultural viewpoint suggesting that Kale Akte may have had a greater economic importance for Sicily and the wider Mediterranean world than its size and lowly political status would suggest Also discussed is the gradual population shift away from the hill top down to a growing harbour settlement at Caronia Marina at the foot of the rock The book is particularly important for the comprehensive analysis of the 1999 2004 excavations at the latter with fresh interpretations of the function of the buildings excavated and their chronology as well for reviewing the present state of our knowledge about Kale Akte Calacte and defining research questions for the future The archaeological material at the heart of this study comes from excavations at the site conducted by the author It is one of the few detailed publications from Sicily of Hellenistic and Roman amphora material The conclusions about changing trends of commercial production and exchange will be of interest to those working on ceramic material elsewhere in Sicily and indeed further afield The study also offers a fresh perspective of the economic history of ancient Sicily and concludes that Kale Akte's privileged location on the north coast was well suited for the export trade to Italy and the city of Rome itself which enabled the Sicilian town to prosper during the Roman Empire. The origins of Kale Akte and its alleged foundation by the exiled Sikel leader Ducetius in the fifth century BC are also discussed in the light of the latest archaeological discoveries. An Italian summary of each chapter is also included.

Ceramics in Transition: Production and Exchange of Late Byzantine-Early Islamic Pottery in Southern Transjordan and the Negev Elisabeth Holmqvist, 2019-07-31 This book focuses on the utilitarian ceramic traditions during the socio-political transition from the late Byzantine into the early Islamic Umayyad and Abbasid periods in southern Transjordan and the Negev. Production clusters, manufacturing techniques, distribution patterns and material links between communities are analysed.

Parisi Peter Halkon, 2013-10-01 The Parisi were a tribe located somewhere within the present-day East Riding of Yorkshire, UK, known from a brief reference by Ptolemy. They were originally immigrants from Gaul and share their name with the tribe that occupied modern-day France. Fairly obvious from their name, they gave the French capital its name. The investigation of the Parisi began in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries following the trend for antiquarian exploration elsewhere in Britain. Before that, the remains of Roman buildings encountered in medieval East Yorkshire were treated with little respect and used as a resource. The Parisi tells this captivating story of the history of the archaeology of The Parisi from the initial investigations in the sixteenth century right through to modern-day investigations.
