Emerson, 1964 Ralph Waldo Emerson's decision to quit the ministry arrived at painfully during the summer and fall of 1832 was accompanied by illness so severe that he was forced to give up any immediate thought of a new career Instead in December he embarked on a tour of Europe that was to take him to Italy France Scotland and England Within a year after his return in the fall in 1833 his health largely restored he went to live in the town of Concord his home from then on The record of Emerson's ten months in Europe which makes up a large part of this book is unusually detailed and personal actually a diary recording what Emerson saw and did as well as what he thought He describes cities scenes and buildings that he found striking in one way or another and he gives impressions of the people he met During his travels he made the acquaintance of Landor of Lafayette and of Carlyle Wordsworth and Coleridge all of whom stimulated him In Paris he was so much stirred by a visit to the Jardin des Plantes that he determined to become a naturalist On his return to America still without a profession he reverted in his journals to the more impersonal form they had taken in his days as a minister focusing on his inner experiences rather than on external events Notes start dotting the pages once again this time not so much for future sermons although for years he did a certain amount of occasional preaching as for the addresses of the public lecturer he would soon become Through the thirty four months covered by this volume the journals continue to be the advancing record of Emerson's mind demonstrating a growing maturity and firmness of style by compression and aphorism Journals and Miscellaneous Notebooks: 1838-1842 Ralph Waldo Emerson, 1969 In the eight regular journals and three miscellaneous notebooks of this volume is the record of fusions This period of his life closes as it opened with acquiescence and optimism The Journals and Miscellaneous Notebooks of Ralph Waldo Emerson, Volume XII, 1835-1862 Ralph Waldo Emerson, 1976 The twelfth volume makes available nine of Emerson's lecture notebooks covering a span of twenty seven years from 1835 to 1862 from apprenticeship to fame These notebooks contain materials Emerson collected for the composition of his lectures articles and essays during those years The Journals and

Ralph Waldo Emerson the man and thinker will be fully revealed for the first time in this new edition of his journals and notebooks The old image of the ideal nineteenth century gentleman created by editorial omissions of his spontaneous thoughts is replaced by the picture of Emerson as he really was His frank and often bitter criticisms of men and society his nihilizing his anguish at the death of his first wife his bleak struggles with depression and loneliness his sardonic views of woman his earthy humor his ideas of the Negro of religion of God these and other expressions of his private thought and feeling formerly deleted or subdued are here restored Restored also is the full evidence needed for studies of his habits of composition the development of his style and the sources of his ideas The second volume prints the exact texts of nine journals and three notebooks It reveals the shape of some of Emerson's enduring interests in embryo essays on the moral sense moral beauty taste greatness and fame friendship compensation and the unity of God and the universe Restored from oblivion are suppressed passages on the Negro and revelations of acute melancholy and rebelliousness These records of his developing thought are also the history of his early obscurity when the fame he sought was still painfully remote      The Journals and Miscellaneous Notebooks of Ralph Waldo Emerson: 1835-1838 Ralph Waldo Emerson, William Henry Gilman, 1960      The Journals and Miscellaneous Notebooks of Ralph Waldo Emerson: 1819-1822 Ralph Waldo Emerson, 1960      The Journals and Miscellaneous Notebooks of Ralph Waldo Emerson Ralph Waldo Emerson, 1966
The Journals and Miscellaneous Notebooks of Ralph Waldo Emerson: 1847-1848 Ralph Waldo Emerson, William Henry Gilman, 1960      The Journals and Miscellaneous Notebooks of Ralph Waldo Emerson: 1852-1855 Ralph Waldo Emerson, William Henry Gilman, 1960      The Journals and Miscellaneous Notebooks of Ralph Waldo Emerson: 1832-1834 Ralph Waldo Emerson, William Henry Gilman, 1960      The Journals and Miscellaneous Notebooks of Ralph Waldo Emerson: 1854-1861 Ralph Waldo Emerson, William Henry Gilman, 1960      The journals and miscellaneous notebooks of Ralph Waldo Emerson Ralph Waldo Emerson, 1963
Ralph Waldo Emerson's life from 1826 to 1832 has a classic dramatic structure beginning with his approbation to preach in October 1826 continuing with his courtship his brief marriage to Ellen Tucker and his misery after her death and concluding with his departure from the ministry The journals and notebooks of these years are far fewer than those in the preceding six years Emerson noted down many ideas for sermons in his journals but as time went on he wrote the sermons independently Occasionally he wrote openly about family matters but except for the passionate response to Ellen and her death the journals tell little about the impact upon him of other people and outside events The pattern is consistent with the earlier journals Emerson used them mainly to record his thought to develop and express his ideas His religious and intellectual interests were undergoing significant changes in orientation or emphasis He was less concerned with the existence of God than with the nature and influence of Christ. He continued to reassert the truth of Christianity but in his growing unorthodoxy he came to show less and less sympathy with the church with forms and ritual with convention. And he began to wonder whether it is not the worst part of the man that is the minister. During these years Emerson read more in Madame de Staël, Wordsworth, Goethe and Coleridge less in Milton, the Augustans, Dugald Stewart and Scott. In style he moved from a rambling bookish rhetoric to the tautness and the cadences that mark his later Essays. The Journals and Miscellaneous Notebooks of Ralph Waldo Emerson Ralph Waldo Emerson, 1960
