Learning And Sociocultural Contexts New Directions For Adult And Continuing Education:

Handbook of Adult Development and Learning Carol Hoare, 2006-03-30 Adult development and learning have always existed as two separate fields of study with development falling under psychology and learning under education. Recent advances in theory, research, and practice, however, have made it clear that an important reciprocal relationship exists between them. Advances in development frequently lead to learning, and conversely, learning quite often fuels development. The synchronicity between development and learning is responsible for positive changes in many capacities, including insight, intelligence, reflective and meta-cognition, personality expression, interpersonal competence, and self-efficacy. This synchronicity is also leading to the growth of a new discipline at the borders of adult development and learning. The Handbook of Adult Development and Learning is the first to bring together the leading scholars from both adult development and learning to explore what will form the foundation for this new discipline, the latest research at the intersection of these fields. It examines six major aspects of their intersection: foundations, key areas of integration, the self-system, higher reaches of development and learning, essential contexts, and specific applications. An introductory chapter explains why it is so important to recognize and fuel the growth of this new discipline. Subsequent chapters review the latest theoretical and empirical literature and provide a rich itinerary for future research. This handbook is a must-read for all who promote optimal aging. It will be an invaluable reference for scholars in development and education, as well as a rich resource for policy makers and practitioners such as corporate executives and human resource personnel. Learning and Sociocultural Contexts: Implications for Adults, Community, and Workplace Education Mary V. Alfred, 2002 Explores some of the contexts within which learning occurs and the social and cultural dynamics that influence learning and teaching. Aims to create an awareness of the importance of context in adult learning and to encourage adult educators to be reflective of their practice, to understand how social and cultural contexts influence classroom dynamics, and to take critical action to ameliorate hegemonic practices in adult education. This is the 96th issue of the Jossey-Bass series New Directions for Adult and Continuing Education. New Directions for Adult and Continuing Education, 2006 The Palgrave International Handbook on Adult and Lifelong Education and Learning Marcella Milana, Sue Webb, John Holford, Richard Waller, Peter Jarvis, 2017-10-10 This Handbook provides a wide-ranging frame of reference for researching adult and lifelong education and learning. With contributions from scores of established and newer scholars from six continents, the volume covers a diverse range of geopolitical and social territories across the world. Drawing on the multiple heritages that underpin research on education and learning in adulthood, this Handbook addresses the inner tensions between adult education, adult learning, lifelong education, and lifelong learning by using current research and theorizations from disciplinary backgrounds including philosophy, psychology, biology, and neuroscience, anthropology, sociology, history, political science, and economics. It provides an explicit discussion of the differences and tensions between adult and lifelong education and learning and locates these in different policy and historical contexts theories and practices It explores a variety of discipline based theoretical perspectives and highlights how these have influenced and been influenced by research in the education and learning of adults The Handbook also explores the inevitable frictions and dilemmas these present and carefully examines the role of the international dimension in researching education and learning in formal non formal and informal contexts beyond traditional schooling This state of the art comprehensive Handbook is the first of its kind to explore adult education lifelong education and lifelong learning fully as distinct activities on an international scale It will be an indispensable reference resource for students of education at undergraduate and postgraduate levels and for academic researchers professionals and policy makers concerned with adult and community education further and vocational education or work based training and human resource development
