Leb Than Heroes:

Beirut on the Bayou Raif Shwayri, 2016-02-16 Raif Shwayri begins his family's story with his grandfather Habib Shwayri's arrival at Ellis Island in 1902. Having left Beirut, then a harbor city on the Syrian coast of the Ottoman Empire, only weeks before he took the name Alfred Nicola and made his way to relatives in New Orleans. There he began peddling down the Bayou Lafourche, befriending the communities living alongside the water and earning the nickname Sweet Papa for his kindness and generosity. When he returned home to Lebanon in 1920, he invested the money he had made from years of peddling in real estate and died a wealthy man in 1956. After his death, his youngest son Nadim Raif's father turned his part of the inheritance into an endowment that started Al Kafa, an iconic and unique institution in Lebanon that serves the handicapped and underprivileged. Alfred Nicola's story, like the story of Lebanon itself, begins farther back in history. In its account of centuries of Ottoman rule, decades of colonial occupation, and years of internal political strife and civil war, Beirut on the Bayou intertwines a family narrative with the story of a people of Lebanon in the making. From the Fertile Crescent that was Syria to the Crescent City that is New Orleans, the saga of the Shwayri family reflects the experiences of those Lebanese who walked the path of immigration to the United States as well as those who stayed behind or returned to help forge a nation.

Lebanon Adrift Samir Khalaf, 2012-05-28 Lebanon today is at a fateful crossroads in its eventful socio-cultural and political history. Imperiled by unsettling transformations from postwar reconstruction and rehabilitation to the forces of postmodernity and globalism, it remains adrift. In this landmark study, Samir Khalaf explores how ordinary citizens, burdened by the consequences of an ugly and unfinished war, persisting regional rivalries, mounting economic deprivation, and diminishing prospects for well-being, find meaning and coherence in a society that has not only lost its moorings and direction but also its sense of control. Khalaf argues that a mood of lethargy and indifference prevails, with a growing tendency for the Lebanese to seek refuge in religiosity, communalism, and cloistered spatial identities or temporary relief in the allure of mass consumerism.

History Education in Lebanon and the Borders of the Nation Bouchra Saab, 2025-09-01 This study shows that widely used history textbooks in Lebanon are more standardized and censored than in most liberal democratic countries and relatively similar in form and content to textbooks from Syria and Iraq. A diversity of historical narratives has progressively converged into one dominant narrative which entails a standard definition of the self. In contrast, the other is defined through the exclusion of religious groups considered exogenous and ethnicities considered inferior. In addition, women are marginalized. Surprisingly, the textbooks affiliated with Hezbollah, a Shiite militia financed by the Iranian regime, depart to a certain extent from this definition. While most previous research on Lebanese history textbooks has focused on the diverging narratives of religious communities, this study views these textbooks as the outcome of a tension between two major forces: educational traditions on the one hand and contemporary politics on the other.

peacemakers only Women and the Lebanese Civil War highlights that women were involved as militants and often also as fighters in all of the militias partaking in the war Analysing individual motivations organisational characteristics security related aspects and societal factors the book explains why women were included as fighters in some of the militias but not in others Based on extensive fieldwork in Lebanon the book is the first comprehensive study of female perpetrators and supporters of political violence during the Lebanese Civil War Beyond the case of Lebanon it questions widespread assumptions about the roles of women at times of violent conflict and war
