Field Guide To Educational Renewal:

Field Guide to Educational Renewal ,1994      Resources in Education ,2000-10      Where Do We Go from Here? Jane E. Neapolitan,Terry R. Berkeley,2006 Textbook      A Field Guide to Student Teaching in Music Ann C. Clements,Rita Klinger,2010-06-10 A Field Guide to Student Teaching in Music is a practical guide focused on the link between music education coursework and the field based aspects of the student teaching experience It addresses general topics that are common to all music placements as well as those topics that are of specific interest to the general choral and instrumental music classrooms This text builds on theoretical materials typically covered in music methods courses yet it is not specific to any one particular teaching pedagogy making it flexible enough for use in a variety of music teaching settings It will guide students through the student teaching process as they make the transition from student to music educator      Forthcoming Books Rose Army,1999-04      Teaching Leaders to Lead Teachers Saran Donahoo,Richard C Hunter,2007-08-20 TEACHING LEADERS TO LEAD TEACHERS EDUCATIONAL ADMINISTRATION IN THE ERA OF CONSTANT CRISIS In the 21st century the perceived crisis in how schools educate students significantly influences the decision of teachers to move into administrative positions as well as their ability to succeed once they take on these positions Influenced by the media the community and the teacher s lounge many good educators are increasingly unwilling or simply unprepared to make the jump into school leadership and management This book addresses some of the issues that affect school leadership by providing insights into the current state of educational administration in the hope of demystifying or dismissing some of the popular assumptions regarding what really takes place in the administration office In doing so this text examines topics related to the preparation and training of prospective administrators factors that affect the process of leading in learning environments and perspectives on the state and structure of school leadership research and development      Educational Leadership and Music Terri N. Watson,Jeffrey S. Brooks,Floyd D. Beachum,2017-04-01 In this book we considered new territory for educational leadership by looking to music for lessons and inspiration that may inform the next generation of schools leaders Each chapter focuses on an artist or group whose work serves to refine extend and challenge our thinking in regards to educational leadership You will find a vast array of musical forms of expression analyzed and described by an equally diverse collection of educational leadership scholars and practitioners There may be some who question the academic appropriateness or relevance of a text such as this one Our response is that part of our ongoing mission should be to break ourselves out of academic silos and forge meaningful connections between seemingly disparate disciplines Furthermore educational leadership stands to gain more by drawing from the arts and specifically musical influences Finally music is an obvious part of most of our lives why not explore the ways in which it impacts us on an academic level and not just a personal level In sum we ask that as you read the chapters of this book you reflect on your own musical tastes and favorite artists      Interdisciplinary High School Teaching John H. Clarke,1997 Discusses the trend in high school classrooms away from

Tice,2019-02-01 Service learning is a powerful method of teaching and learning that has been used effectively for more than two decades This volume contributes further to the Advances in Service Learning Research series that focuses upon service learning in teacher education Research and theory indicate that knowledge of service learning pedagogy and how to implement it in teacher candidates future classrooms can enhance field experiences of teacher education and the civic mission of schools However research also reminds us that that the practice of service learning is nuanced and complex No two service learning experiences are alike yet universal characteristics across service learning experiences define its essence and distinction It is through research that digs deep into these nuanced issues that we can learn more about the different characteristics of the experience that define service learning and guide implementation The preface provides an interview with Andy Furco an early advocate of service learning and noted leader who has fostered service learning in K 12 and higher education throughout the United States and across the globe Andy Furco s commentary offers an historical overview of the field as well as how the field can advance providing insights for those new to the field as well as those who have engaged in service learning The preface and thirteen chapters together provide empirical and conceptual support for including service learning Concurrently this scholarship provides guidance for implementing service learning in teacher preparation and in K 12 education Interrelated themes include self efficacy connections with communities diversity and program development in teacher education

Race/Class Conflict and Urban Financial Threat Jennifer L. Hochschild, 2024-12-19 Race and class inequality are at the crux of many policy disputes in American cities But are they the only factors driving political discord In Race Class Conflict and Urban Financial Threat political scientist Jennifer L Hochschild examines significant policies in four major American cities to determine when race and class shape city politics when they do not and what additional forces have the power to shape urban policy choices Hochschild investigates the root causes of disputes in the arenas of policing development schooling and budgeting She finds that race and class are central to the Stop Question Frisk policing policy in New York City and the development of Atlanta s Beltline New York s Stop Question Frisk policy was intended to fight crime and keep all New Yorkers safe In practice however young Black and Latino men in low income neighborhoods were disproportionately stopped by a predominantly White police force The goal of the Atlanta Beltline a redevelopment project that includes public parks new housing commercial development and a robust public transit system is to expand access around the city and keep working class residents in the city by constructing affordable housing Instead the construction completed thus far has encouraged gentrification and displacement of poor disproportionately Black residents and has increased the wealth and power of both Black and White city elites However Hochschild finds that race and class inequality are not central to all urban policy disputes When investigating the issues of charter schools in Los Angeles and Chicago's pension system she identifies a third driver financial threat that feels existential to the policy and political actors In Los Angeles there is a battle between traditional public schools and independent charter schools Increasingly families with sufficient resources are moving out of L A to areas with better school districts Traditional public schools and charter schools must fight for the remaining students and the funding that comes with them There are not enough students to teach and not enough money to teach them The school district risks school closures layoffs and pension deficits in this context race class conflict fades into the background Chicago's public sector pension debt is at least three times as large as the city's annual budget and continues to grow Policy actors agree that the pension system needs to be stably funded Yet city leaders fearful of upsetting constituents and jeopardizing their political careers fail to implement policies that would do so Meaningful policy change to rectify the pension deficit continues to get kicked down the line for future policy actors to address In this context also race class conflict fades into the background Race Class Conflict and Urban Financial Threat is a compelling examination of the role that race class and political and fiscal threat play in shaping urban policy
