Fiery Cinema Weihong Bao, 2015-03-15 What was cinema in modern China It was this book tells us a dynamic entity not strictly tied to one media technology one mode of operation or one system of aesthetic code It was in Weihong Bao's term an affective medium a distinct notion of the medium as mediating environment with the power to stir passions frame perception and mold experience In Fiery Cinema Bao traces the permutations of this affective medium from the early through the mid twentieth century exploring its role in aesthetics politics and social institutions Mapping the changing identity of cinema in China in relation to Republican era print media theatrical performance radio broadcasting television and architecture Bao has created an archaeology of Chinese media culture Within this context she grounds the question of spectatorial affect and media technology in China's experience of mechanized warfare colonial modernity and the shaping of the public into consumers national citizens and a revolutionary collective subject Carrying on a close conversation with transnational media theory and history she teases out the tension and affinity between vernacular political modernist and propagandistic articulations of mass culture in China's varied participation in modernity Fiery Cinema advances a radical rethinking of affect and medium as a key insight into the relationship of cinema to the public sphere and the making of the masses By centering media politics in her inquiry of the forgotten future of cinema Bao makes a major intervention into the theory and history of media

Pathways of Desire Héctor Carrillo, 2018-01-09 With Pathways of Desire Héctor Carrillo brings us into the lives of Mexican gay men who have left their home country to pursue greater sexual autonomy and sexual freedom in the United States The groundbreaking ethnographic study brings our attention to the full arc of these men s migration experiences from their upbringing in Mexican cities and towns to their cross border journeys to their incorporation into urban gay communities in American cities and their sexual and romantic relationships with American men These men s diverse and fascinating stories demonstrate the intertwining of sexual economic and familial motivations for migration Further Carrillo shows that sexual globalization must be regarded as a bidirectional albeit uneven process of exchange between countries in the global north and the global south With this approach Carrillo challenges the view that gay men from countries like Mexico would logically want to migrate to a more sexually enlightened country like the United States a partial and limited understanding given the dynamic character of sexuality in countries such as Mexico which are becoming more accepting of sexual diversity Pathways of Desire also provides a helpful analytical framework for the simultaneous consideration of structural and cultural factors in social scientific studies of sexuality Carrillo explains the patterns of cross cultural interaction that sexual migration generates and at the most practical level shows how the intricacies of cross cultural sexual and romantic relations may affect the sexual health and HIV risk of transnational immigrant populations
