Schwenkler, 2020-07-17 Suppose you're offered an opportunity to experience something that is unlike anything you have ever encountered but that's all you know aside from the fact that the experience is physically safe and morally acceptable How do you decide whether to take up the offer Several philosophers have recently argued that we are in similar situations for more of our decisions than we usually recognize Are they right What resources can we draw on to create such situations Are they enough to satisfy our aims of making the best decisions we can especially in high stakes situations This volume brings together philosophers and psychologists to investigate the phenomenon of transformative change and a host of fascinating questions it prompts Taking their departure from seminal work on transformative choice and experience by L A Paul and Edna Ullmann Margalit the authors pursue fundamental questions concerning the nature of rationality the limits of the imagination and the metaphysics of the self They also strike out into new areas including value theory aesthetics moral and political philosophy Several chapters present the results of experimental investigation into the psychology of transformation self concept and moral learning New Television Martin Shuster, 2017-11-24 Even though it's frequently asserted that we are living in a golden age of scripted television television as a medium is still not taken seriously as an artistic art form nor has the stigma of television as chewing gum for the mind really disappeared Philosopher Martin Shuster argues that television is the modern art form full of promise and urgency and in New Television he offers a strong philosophical justification for its importance Through careful analysis of shows including The Wire Justified and Weeds among others and European and Anglophone philosophers such as Stanley Cavell Hannah Arendt Martin Heidegger and John Rawls Shuster reveals how various contemporary television series engage deeply with aesthetic and philosophical issues in modernism and modernity What unifies the aesthetic and philosophical ambitions of new television is a commitment to portraying and exploring the family as the last site of political possibility in a world otherwise bereft of any other sources of traditional authority consequently at the heart of new television are profound political stakes Jax E.
