Catalogue - Harvard University Harvard University,1922 Spaces of the Sacred and Profane Elizabeth A. Bridgham,2012-01-26 This study examines the unique cultural space of Victorian cathedral towns as they appear in the literary work of Charles Dickens and Anthony Trollope arguing that Dickens and Trollope use the cathedral town s enclosure and its overt connections between sacred and secular present and past as an ideal locus from which to critique Victorian religious attitudes aesthetic anxieties business practices and even immigration By displacing these issues from the metropolis these social authors defamiliarize them raising what might have been considered strictly urban problems to the level of national crises By situating contemporary debates in cathedral towns Dickens and Trollope complicate the restrictive dichotomy between urban and rural space often drawn by contemporary critics and Victorian fiction writers alike In this book Bridgham focuses on the appearance of three such key concerns appearing in the cathedral towns of each writer religious fragmentation the social value of artistic labor and the Gothic revival Dickens and Trollope reject Romantic nostalgia by concentrating on the ancient yet vital as opposed to ruined edifices of the cathedrals and by demonstrating ways in which modern sensibilities politics and comforts supersede the values of the cloister In this sense their cathedral towns are not idealized escapes rather they reflect the societies of which they are a part

Letters of Rainer Maria Rilke, 1892-1910 Rainer Maria Rilke, 1969-02-17 This representative selection from Rilke's large and extraordinary correspondence provides a kind of spiritual autobiography of the poet The period here covered reflects all the great experiences of Rilke's early adult life his difficult beginnings his relationships with Lou Andreas Salome and with his wife Clara his two journeys to Russia his contact with the Worpswede artists the influence of Paris the revelation of Cezanne Many of the letters are psychologically revealing many touch upon characteristic themes or freshly transcribe experience that sooner or later passes into the poetry

In Pursuit of Knowledge Deborah Rhode, 2006-09-25 Although academics have never lacked for critics publications on the profession tend to be either popularized polemics which are engaging but misleading or scholarly analyses which are intellectually responsible but of little interest to anyone but specialists In Pursuit of Knowledge offers an alternative a unique portrait of academic life that should appeal to both experts and a general audience Drawing on a wide range of disciplines including higher education history law sociology economics and literature the book focuses on the ways in which the pursuit of status has undermined the pursuit of knowledge Deborah Rhode argues that both individual scholars and institutions in higher education are caught in an arms race of reputation The result has been to skew priorities in scholarship erode commitments to teaching compromise efforts of public intellectuals and impede effectiveness in administration The book offers several solutions to counter these pervasive problems in our research institutions Rhode makes a case for increasing accountability and realigning reward systems She argues that what is needed is a greater sense of responsibility among universities and their faculties to narrow the gap between academic ideals and practices In Pursuit of Knowledge is meticulously researched and elegantly written It is also exceptionally entertaining in its use of quotations culled from over a hundred academic novels including works by Kingsley Amis Saul Bellow David Lodge and C P Snow For example from P G Wodehouse's The Girl in Blue The Agee woman told us for three quarters of an hour how she came to write her beastly book when a simple apology was all that was required The result is a highly readable but also deeply reflective analysis of the academic profession
