Hunter, 1997 Most civil engineering projects carried out in the UK which are concerned with the construction or maintenance of highways employ the 5th edition of the ICE Conditions of Contract and the Manual of Contract Documents for Highway Works In order to maximise returns in construction works or often nowadays to minimise losses it is necessary for engineers contractors and clients to have a full understanding of these documents particularly those elements which have a financial connotation Claims on highway contracts has been specifically written to explore those parts of the 5th edition of the ICE Conditions of Contract and the Manual of Contract Documents for Highway Works which are particularly important in the commercial aspects of highway contracts and to examine how they apply in claims situations There have been many books written on claims by lawyers which are full of legalese Claims on highway contracts is the first and only book which has been written by a practising engineer who works in this field and has experience of the claims minefield to provide advice in a practical and straightforward manner The New Engineering Contract Arthur McInnis, 2001 The introduction of the New Engineering Contract NEC encourages a systematic approach to contracting which is multidisciplinary in nature and fully interlocked in form The NEC is intended by its supporters to be more flexible and easier to use than any current leading traditional standard forms of contract It is believed that these features reduce adversariality and disputes The NEC seeks to achieve this aim primarily through co operative management techniques and incentives built into the NEC s procedures This commentary analyses and evaluates these and related claims of innovation The New Engineering Contract A legal commentary examines the background to the NEC its design objectives structure procedures and likely judicial interpretation to determine whether it improves upon the traditional standard forms of contract Special attention is given in the commentary to the development and the significance of the principles underlying preparation of the NEC as well as the arguments in favour of and against them Throughout the detailed commentary upon the NEC clauses comparisons to the traditional forms are also made to highlight unique features and principles of general application The conclusion reached is that the NEC does make a significant contribution to the development of standard forms of contract addresses many of their short comings and offers one of the best models for their future development direction and design The commentary draws upon the body of the project management literature and legal analysis to support its conclusions The New Engineering Contract A legal commentary will be essential reading for lawyers barristers and solicitors as well as engineers and project managers
