Conflicted Democracies and Gendered Violence Angana P. Chatterji, Shashi Buluswar, Mallika Kaur, 2016-11-04 The Sexual Violence and Impunity in South Asia research project coordinated by Zubaan and supported by the International Development Research Centre brings together for the first time in the region a vast body of research on this important yet silenced subject Six country volumes one each on Bangladesh Nepal Pakistan Sri Lanka and two on India as well as two standalone volumes comprising over fifty research papers and two book length studies detail the histories of sexual violence and look at the systemic institutional societal individual and community structures that work together to perpetuate impunity for perpetrators The essays in this volume focus on Nepal which though not directly colonized has not remained immune from the influence of colonialism in its neighbourhood In addition to home grown feudal patriarchal structures the writers in this volume clearly demonstrate that it is the larger colonial and post colonial context of the subcontinent that has enabled the structuring of inequalities and power relations in ways that today allow for widespread sexual violence and impunity in the country through legal systems medical regimes and social institutions The period after the 1990 democratic movement the subsequent political transformation in the aftermath of the Maoist insurgency and the writing of the new constitution has seen an increase in public discussion about sexual violence The State has brought in a slew of legislation and action plans to address this problem And yet impunity for perpetrators remains intact and justice elusive What are the structures that enable such impunity What can be done to radically transform these How must States understand the search for justice for victims and survivors of sexual violence The essays in this volume attempt to trace a history of sexual violence in Nepal look at the responses of women s groups and society at large and suggest how this serious and wide ranging problem may be addressed

Dead for Good Hugh D. Military Intervention and Secession in South Asia Anne N. Dos Santos,2007-10-30 From Chechnya in Russia to Kashmir in India to the Basque region in Spain secessionist movements remain a serious threat to international security Despite the importance of this issue the causes that bring about external military intervention in a secessionist war have not until now been adequately addressed In this book Dos Santos identifies the conditions that make international military intervention in a secessionist war more or less likely South Asia being fraught with secessionist movements Bangladesh Sri Lanka Kashmir and Punjab provides an ideal laboratory for the examination of this compelling issue Dos Santos argues that a shift in the balance of power between a secessionist group and its central government will lead to a preventive war on the secessionists by the central government In turn a preventive war of this nature may lead to an alliance between the secessionist group and an external power The stronger the alliance the greater the chances of an international military intervention Understanding the conditions under which secessionist movements expand become secessionist wars and invite international military intervention on behalf of the secessionists has strong policy implications It can go a long way toward guiding policymakers who may want to mitigate or avoid these conditions in their states Dos Santos views both states and secessionist groups as primary actors and she examines both the distribution of power among states and the balance of power between central government and groups within states occurred in domestic and international terrorism The work is fully cross referenced to provide a comprehensive research tool for high school students academics security analysts and other readers interested in the study of terrorism Nationalism, Terrorism, Patriotism Yamuna Sangarasivam, 2022-01-01 This book examines the intersecting forces of nationalism terrorism and patriotism that normalize an acceptance of the global war on terror as essential to maintaining freedom and democracy as defined by white nation states Readers are introduced to speculative ethnography an experimental methodology that bends time and space through the practice of avant garde poetics This study conceptualizes terrorism as a place of colonial encounters between soldiers insurgents civilians and leaders of nation states The tactics of suicide bombings employed by the Tamil nationalist movement the Liberation Tigers of Tamil Eelam are juxtaposed with drone strikes in asymmetric warfare where violence becomes a means of dialogue Each chapter weaves seemingly disparate narratives from multiple experiences and sites of war inviting readers to witness the condition of getting lost in that willful attachment to killing and being killed in service of patriotic pride and national belonging Religion and the Specter of the West Arvind-Pal S. Mandair, 2009-10-23 Arguing that intellectual movements such as deconstruction postsecular theory and political theology have different implications for cultures and societies that live with the debilitating effects of past imperialisms Arvind Mandair unsettles the politics of knowledge construction in which the category of religion continues to be central Through a case study of Sikhism he launches an extended critique of religion as a cultural universal At the same time he presents a portrait of how certain aspects of Sikh tradition were reinvented as religion during the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries India's imperial elite subtly recast Sikh tradition as a sui generis religion which robbed its teachings of their political force In turn Sikhs began to define themselves as a nation and a world religion that was separate from but parallel to the rise of the Indian state and global Hinduism Rather than investigate these processes in isolation from Europe Mandair shifts the focus closer to the political history of ideas thereby recovering part of Europe's repressed colonial memory Mandair rethinks the intersection of religion and the secular in discourses such as history of religions postcolonial theory and recent continental philosophy Though seemingly unconnected these discourses are shown to be linked to a philosophy of generalized translation that emerged as a key conceptual matrix in the colonial encounter between India and the West In this riveting study Mandair demonstrates how this philosophy of translation continues to influence the repetitions of religion and identity politics in the lives of South Asians and the way the academy state and media have analyzed such phenomena
