Land And Property Development New Directions:

Property Development David Cadman, Rosalyn Topping, 1995 This text on the commercial property development process is aimed at students of all disciplines related to the built environment It provides a practical overview of the process focusing on such things as land acquisition and planning The Role of the State and Individual in Sustainable Land Management Dr Peter C Bloch, Mr Robert W Dixon-Gough, 2012-11-28 Bringing together case studies from Europe Africa and North and South America this book makes a fresh assessment of the role of the individual and the state in land development It discusses a range of issues related to land reform land development and land management providing a unique reflection of the current state of research Particular emphasis is laid on the implementation of sustainable processes of land development as an integrated principle of land management The book examines the rights of the land users and addresses a number of issues relating to sustainability and land development ranging from emerging land markets and environmental issues through to natural resource development The case studies provide practical examples of the application of land reform and land development to land management Urban Regeneration J.N. Berry, N.G. Deddis, W.S. McGreal, 2013-11-05 This book provides an in depth analysis of the role of property investment and development in the urban regeneration process It relates the physical economic financial and environmental aspects of urban change and development to the realities of particular cities by case studies drawn from Britain and Europe New Directions for Smallholder Agriculture Peter B. R.

Hazell, Atiqur Rahman, 2014-03-06 The majority of the poor and hungry people in the world live on small farms and struggle to subsist on too little land with low input low yield technologies At the same time many other smallholders are successfully intensifying and succeeding as farm businesses often in combination with diversification into off farm sources of income This book examines the growing divergence between subsistence and business oriented small farms and discusses how this divergence has been impacted by population growth trends in farm size distribution urbanization off farm income diversification and the globalization of agricultural value chains It finds that policy makers need to differentiate more sharply between different types of small farms than they did in the past both in terms of their potential contributions towards achieving national economic growth poverty alleviation and food security goals and the types of assistance they need The book distinguishes between smallholders that are business oriented subsistence oriented and at various stages of transition to the non farm economy and discusses strategies appropriate for assisting each type The book draws on a wealth of recent experience at IFAD and elsewhere to help identify best practice approaches New Directions in Rural Preservation , 1980

Housing and Planning
References,1979 Reconstructing Public Housing Matthew Thompson,2020 Reconstructing Public Housing tells the story of Liverpool s cooperative revolution in municipal housing development in the 1970s how this laid the foundations for the first ever architectural or urban regeneration project to win the artworld s coveted Turner Prize and what this says about how we might renew public housing collectively Inflation-responsive Transit Financing ,1982 Personal Wealth from a Global Perspective James B. Davies,2008-11-13 This book provides the first study of personal wealth from a global viewpoint Previous international studies of wealth have focused on the rich countries Here the transition countries emerging economies and the developing world are examined too The book looks at wealth inequality and asset composition around the world showing how these are affected by history institutions gender and incomes There is a dramatic contrast between rich countries where financial assets are so important and poor countries where farm assets and land still dominate The book shows that wealth inequality within countries is far higher than that of income and has been rising recently most notably in Russia China and other transition countries Concentration among the rich and super rich has also increased Worldwide the top 2% have about 50% of personal wealth and the top 10% have 85% In contrast the bottom half has just 1% Poor countries are even poorer in wealth than in income terms But these are just the countries where life is most insecure and personal assets are most needed The book concludes that steps must be taken to break down barriers and help the poor and middle class in low income countries build up their personal assets to overcome their wealth disadvantage

Nomadic Peoples

and Human Rights Jérémie Gilbert, 2014-03-26 Although nomadic peoples are scattered worldwide and have highly heterogeneous lifestyles they face similar threats to their mobile livelihood and survival Commonly nomadic peoples are facing pressure from the predominant sedentary world over mobility land rights water resources access to natural resources and migration routes Adding to these traditional problems rapid growth in the extractive industry and the need for the exploitation of the natural resources are putting new strains on nomadic lifestyles This book provides an innovative rights based approach to the issue of nomadism looking at issues including discrimination persecution freedom of movement land rights cultural and political rights and effective management of natural resources Jeremie Gilbert analyses the extent to which human rights law is able to provide protection for nomadic peoples to perpetuate their own way of life and culture The book questions whether the current human rights regime is able to protect nomadic peoples and highlights the lacuna that currently exists in international human rights law in relation to nomadic peoples It goes on to propose avenues for the development of specific rights for nomadic peoples offering a new reading on freedom of movement land rights and development in the context of nomadism

Reinventing Detroit Michael Peter Smith, 2017-09-29 This book addresses the questions of what went wrong with Detroit and what can be done to reinvent the Motor City Various answers to the former deindustrialization white flight and a disappearing tax base are now well understood Less discussed are potential paths forward stemming from alternative explanations of Detroit s long term decline and reconsideration of the challenges the city currently faces Urban crisis socioeconomic fiscal and political has seemingly narrowed the range of possible interventions Growth oriented redevelopment strategies have not reversed Detroit s decline but in the wake of crisis officials have increasingly funnelled limited public resources into the city s commercial core via an implicit policy of urban triage The crisis has also led to the emergency management of the city by extra democratic entities As a disruptive historical event Detroit s crisis is a moment teeming with political possibilities The critical rethinking of Detroit s past present and future is essential reading for both urban studies scholars and the general public

The Ecosystem Approach to Marine Planning and Management Sue Kidd, Andy Plater, Chris Frid, 2012-08-06 The marine environment is one of our most precious yet fragile natural resources It provides a wide range of essential goods and services including food regulation of climate and nutrient cycling as well as a setting for transport recreation and tourism This environment is however extremely complex and very sensitive to development pressures and other forms of human influence Planning and management of the sea are similarly complicated reflecting intricate legal institutional and ownerships patterns This creates a situation where marine ecosystems are vulnerable to over exploitation or neglect The Ecosystem Approach to Marine Planning and Management describes how growing concern about the state of our seas is resulting in the development of new approaches to marine planning and management For example the United Nations Environment Programme has called for the widespread introduction of Marine Spatial Planning MSP and the European Union has recently been consulting on a new European Maritime Policy designed to stimulate economic growth but at the same time protect the resource base Within the United Kingdom the 2010 Marine Act draws upon the experience of town and country planning and brings into being a new system of Marine Spatial Planning The authors show that a common feature of all these developments is an appreciation that more integrated forms of planning and management are required for our seas and that new arrangements must draw together understanding from natural science social science and many other perspectives Adopting such a trans disciplinary and holistic or ecosystems approach the book distils the expertise of these different disciplines and seeks to promote a broader understanding of the origins and practicalities of new approaches to marine planning and management
