The New International Encyclopaedia, 1923      The New International Encyclopædia Frank Moore Colby, Talcott Williams, 1917      The New International Encyclopaedia Daniel Coit Gilman, Harry Thurston Peck, Frank Moore Colby, 1906      The Fish Lands Bart Holterman, 2020-09-21 The late medieval German trade with the North Atlantic islands in the margins of the Hanseatic trade network has received only limited scholarly attention Merchants from predominantly Hamburg and Bremen established direct trade relations with these islands in the late 15th century and managed to control the international trade with Iceland the Faroes and Shetland for much of the 16th century However the Hanseatic commercial infrastructure was absent in the North Atlantic which forced these merchants to develop new trade strategies Besides a critical re evaluation of the economic and political conditions this volume offers a comprehensive study of the organisation of the trade and the methods used to establish and maintain networks between islanders and German merchants Moreover it analyses the role and socio economic position of the communities of merchants with the North Atlantic in their home towns The book shows that the North Atlantic trade was anything but insignificant It was a dynamic and integral part of the trade network of the northern German cities and its study is highly relevant for the economic history of Northern Europe      Islands and International Law Donald R Rothwell, 2022-07-14 Islands and their status in international law have become one of the more contentious issues in public international law However despite this there is no contemporary book length study on the question This book fills that gap Written by one of the world s leading public international lawyers it offers an authoritative overview of how public international law operates in relation to islands Key issues such as artificial islands archipelagos sovereignty territorial rights maritime entitlements and governance are explored in depth This will become a classic text in the field of international law      The New World Atlas and Gazetteer P.F.
