 David F. Lancy,2024-01-09 In Learning Without Lessons David F Lancy fills a rather large gap in the field of child development and education Drawing on focused empirical studies in cultural psychology ethnographic accounts of childhood and insights from archaeological studies Lancy offers the first attempt to review the principles and practices for fostering learning in children that are found in small scale pre industrial communities across the globe and through history His analysis yields a consistent and coherent pedagogy that can be contrasted sharply with the taken for granted pedagogy found in the West The practices that are rare or absent from indigenous pedagogy include teachers classrooms lessons verbal instruction testing grading praise and the use of symbols Instead field studies document the prevalence of self guided learners who rely on observation listening learning in play from peers the hands on use of real tools and learning through voluntary participation in everyday activities such as foraging Aiming to reverse the customary relation between western and non Western theories or ideas about child learning and development this book concludes that the pedagogy found in communities before the advent of schooling differs in very significant ways from that practiced in schools and in the homes of schooled parents      Towards a holistic approach to support learners at risk of interrupted development Macalane J.
 Malindi,Johnnie Hay,Thabo Makhalemele,2024-02-23 The COVID 19 pandemic and the restrictions that came with it led to unprecedented disruptions in learner development and put them at risk of poor developmental outcomes It is thus important that the extent of the disruption on their development and the support needs of learners be investigated Researching the impact of the disruption should focus on holistic development In this book the authors use multiple research approaches and methods of gathering data in their respective fields to examine the impact of the disruption and determine the support needs of learners Data gathered through the different methods are processed and findings are presented The findings have implications for both practice and future research in the fields of inclusive education learner support educational psychology movement education Life Orientation and curriculum development      Australian Annual Digest ,1910      Littell's Living Age ,1872
