Fragile World William T. Cavanaugh, 2018-05-22 In Fragile World Ecology and the Church scholars and activists from Christian communities as far flung as Honduras the Philippines Colombia and Kenya present a global angle on the global ecological crisis in both its material and spiritual senses and offer Catholic resources for responding to it This volume explores the deep interconnections for better and for worse between the global North and the global South and analyzes the relationship among the physical environment human society culture theology and economics the integral ecology described by Pope Francis in Laudato Si Integral ecology demands that we think deeply about humans and the physical environment but also about the God who both created the world and sustains it in being At its root the ecological crisis is a theological crisis not only in the way that humans regard creation and their place in it but in the way that humans think about God For Pope Francis in Laudato Si the root of the crisis is that we humans have tried to put ourselves in God's place According to Pope Francis therefore A fragile world entrusted by God to human care challenges us to devise intelligent ways of directing developing and limiting our power Original Instructions Melissa K. Nelson, 2008-01-16 Indigenous leaders and other visionaries suggest solutions to today's global crisis Original Instructions are ancient ways of living from the heart of humanity within the heart of nature Explores the convergence of indigenous and contemporary science and the re-indigenization of the world's peoples Includes authoritative indigenous voices including John Mohawk and Winona LaDuke For millennia the world's indigenous peoples have acted as guardians of the web of life for the next seven generations They've successfully managed complex reciprocal relationships between biological and cultural diversity Awareness of indigenous knowledge is reemerging at the eleventh hour to help avert global ecological and social collapse Indigenous cultural wisdom shows us how to live in peace with the earth and one another Original Instructions evokes the rich indigenous storytelling tradition in this collection of presentations gathered from the annual Bioneers conference It depicts how the world's native leaders and scholars are safeguarding the original instructions reminding us about gratitude kinship and a reverence for community and creation Included are more than 20 contemporary indigenous leaders such as Chief Oren Lyons John Mohawk Winona LaDuke and John Trudell These beautiful wise voices remind us where hope lies Consuming Power David E. Nye, 1999-02-18 Nye uses energy as a touchstone to examine the lives of ordinary people engaged in normal activities How did the United States become the world's largest consumer of energy David Nye shows that this is less a question about the development of technology than it is a question about the development of culture In Consuming Power Nye uses energy as a touchstone to examine the lives of ordinary people engaged in normal activities He looks at how these activities changed as new energy systems were constructed from colonial times to recent years He also shows how as Americans incorporated new machines and processes into their lives they became ensnared in power systems that were not easily changed they made choices about the conduct of their lives and those choices accumulated to produce a consuming culture Nye examines a sequence of large systems that acquired and then lost technological momentum over the course of American history including water power steam power electricity the internal combustion engine atomic power and computerization He shows how each system became part of a larger set of social constructions through its links to the home the factory and the city The result is a social history of America as seen through the lens of energy consumption Our Fathers' Fields James E. Kibler, 1998 This work chronicles six generations of the Hardy family who purchased a South Carolina plantation in 1786 and farmed it for two centuries The book also examines the natural history of the plantation and how it became one of the most valuable farms in the South Official Gazette of the United States Patent and Trademark Office, 2006-07-04 A Land Without Gods Jacques M Chevalier, Daniel Buckles, 1995-08 In this theoretically innovative study of maldevelopment and power relations among the Nahuas of southern Veracruz Chevalier and Buckles explore the impact of Mexico's cattle ranching and petrochemical industries on milpa agriculture and rainforest environment They also examine how national politics and economics affect native patterns of patrimonial culture and social organization In the concluding chapter an ascetic worldview illustrated through corn god mythology points to meaningful ways of countering current trends of social and ecological impoverishment This major work of scholarship tackles key issues in ecology and development theories of the state gender analysis and symbolic anthropology Against rigid conceptions of capitalism and native society the authors apply their own theory of process to the orderly and contradictory features of social history Established ways of doing things a mode of government a way of livelihood a kinship and narrative tradition are shown to reflect the imposition of a ruling order an unequal distribution of the proceeds of society and the confrontation of classes and parties genders and age groups spirits and humans struggling for power The Agricultural Situation--1967, Hearing Before ..., 90-1, February 8, 1967 United States.
