Land Claims In East Timor:

Land Claims in East Timor Daniel Fitzpatrick, 2002 Exploration of the issues surrounding resettlement of the East Timorese population since independence Effectively having a clean slate to establish ownership laws and institutions to regulate land ownership and use the new East Timorese government must seek to balance the peace security and economy of its people Includes references and index Author is a Senior Lecturer in the Faculty of Law at the Australian National University

Land Claims in East Timor Daniel Fitzpatrick, 2012 The task of land claims in East Timor is unusually complex and difficult This article therefore simply attempts a preliminary assessment It does not seek to provide answers or recommendations as such but rather a basic chronology of events and typology of current and future land claims The picture will be incomplete and a primary purpose will be to indicate what further information is required Nevertheless it is hoped that the information provided will be enough to begin debate particularly in the Australian legal profession on means of assistance and appropriate ways forward

East Timor Hal Hill, Joao Mariano de Sousa Saldanha, 2001 As the world's newest independent nation the challenges facing East Timor are particularly acute Per capita income is roughly 300 making it one of the world's poorest nations There also remains the possibility of difficult relations with its giant neighbor Indonesia This comprehensive volume is the first serious analysis of East Timor's economic prospects It draws on local as well as international expertise from both academics and policy makers Issues covered include international economic relations agriculture finance and infrastructure and political institutions

Migration, Land and Livelihoods George Curry, Gina Koczberski, John Connell, 2016-03-17 This book critically and succinctly examines recent changes in land ownership mobility and livelihoods in various Pacific island states from East Timor to the Solomon Islands where climate change environmental change including hazards of various origins population growth and urbanization have contributed to new tensions and discords and resulted in complex structures of migration and resettlement This has brought new and varied experiences of income and livelihood generation and consequent reinterpretations of modernity and tradition In a series of detailed case studies this book traces various responses to such socio economic changes both in how they are locally envisaged as pressures on land have intensified urban informal settlements and livelihoods have expanded and perceptions of identity and property rights have changed and in national development policy responses It offers valuable reflections on the complex balance between continuity and change the tensions between social and economic development the will to develop and the management of dissent and difference This book was published as a special issue of Australian Geographer

Conflict and Housing, Land and Property Rights Scott Leckie, Chris Huggins, 2011-02-21 Housing land and property HLP rights as rights are widely recognized throughout international human rights and humanitarian law and provide a clear and consistent legal normative framework for developing better approaches to the HLP challenges faced by the UN and others seeking to build long term peace This book analyses the ubiquitous HLP challenges present in all conflict and post conflict settings It will bridge the worlds of the practitioner and the theorist by combining an overview of the international legal and policy frameworks on HLP rights with dozens of detailed case studies demonstrating country experiences from around the world. The book will be of particular interest to professors and students of international relations law human rights and peace and conflict studies but will have a wider readership among practitioners working for international institutions such as the United Nations and the World Bank non governmental organizations and national agencies in the developing world

The Creation of the East Timorese Economy Mats Lundahl, Fredrik Sjöholm, 2019-07-17 This two volume study explores the economy of East Timor of which very little has been written since the country gained independence in 2002. Currently no comprehensive account exists of the economic history of the country. The former cannot be properly understood without a knowledge of the historical process that created the present day situation. This research monograph is the first book to combine a historical analysis of the creation and development of the economy of East Timor from the earliest times to the present and an analysis of the main contemporary problems facing the East Timorese economy. Volume I considers East Timor from a chronological perspective as an occupied country up to the point at which Indonesia leave. This book will appeal to scholars and students of economics political and social science. It will also be of interest to practitioners in these fields as it focuses on down to earth problems that need to be solved for the economy to develop Returning Home: Housing and Property Restitution Rights for Refugees and Displaced Persons Scott Leckie, 2021-11-15 This volume is a unique effort to cover the topic of the restitution of housing and property in light of lessons learned in the Balkans South Africa East Timor and in a range of other countries that have made the shift from conflict to peace. Individual chapters by authors with direct experience dealing with housing and property restitution in particular contexts will bring into focus the legal and human rights aspects of this question. All parties involved in human rights refugee assistance post conflict reconstruction and reconciliation and property rights will find this volume to be an indispensable resource now that housing and property restitution is viewed as an essential element of post conflict reconstruction and a primary means of reversing ethnic cleansing

Post-conflict Administrations in International Law Eric de Brabandere, 2009-04-24 The concept of international administrations of territory in which comprehensive administrative powers are exercised by on behalf of or with the agreement of the United Nations has recently re-emerged in the context of reconstructing parts of states after conflict. Although in Kosovo and East Timor the UN was endowed with wide ranging executive and legislative powers in the subsequent operations in Afghanistan it was decided to principally rely on local capacity with minimal international participation and in Iraq administrative power was exercised by the occupying powers. The objectives are however very similar. This work first delineates the origins of the granting of administrative functions to international actors and analyses the context in which it has resurfaced namely post conflict peace building or reconstruction. Secondly the book methodically establishes the legal framework applicable to post conflict administrations and peace building operations by taking into account the post conflict scenario in which they operate. Based on these two analyses an enquiry into the practice of the reconstruction processes in Kosovo, East Timor, Afghanistan and Iraq is undertaken to analyse and understand the influence of the international legal framework and the different approaches on the implementation of the mandates. Finally the book concludes with an analysis of questions on exit strategies, local ownership, the internationalisation of domestic institutions and the need for a comprehensive approach towards post conflict reconstruction.

Forts and Fortification in Wallacea Sue O'Connor, Andrew McWilliam, Sally Brockwell, 2020-09-07. This volume presents ground breaking research on fortified sites in three parts of Wallacea by a highly regarded group of scholars from Australia, Europe, Southeast Asia and the United States. In addition to surveying and dating defensive sites in often remote and difficult terrain, the chapters provide an important and scholarly set of archaeological and ethnohistoric studies that investigate the origin of forts in Wallacea. Socio-political instability from climate events, the materialisation of indigenous belief systems and the substantial impact of imperial expansion and European colonialism are examined and comprise a significant addition to our knowledge of conflict and warfare in an under studied part of the Indo-Pacific. The archaeological record for past conflict is frequently ambiguous and the contribution of warfare to social development is mired in debate and paradox. Authors demonstrate that forts and other defensive constructions are costly and complicated structures that while designed and built to protect a community from a threat of imminent violence, had and have complicated life histories as a result of their architectural permanence, strategic locations and traditional cultural and political significance. Understanding why conflict outbreaks like human colonisation often appear in the past as a punctuated event can best be approached through long term records of conflict and violence involving archaeology and allied historical disciplines as has been successfully done here. The volume is essential reading for archaeologists, cultural heritage managers and those with an interest in conflict studies. Professor Geoffrey Clark, College of Asia and the Pacific, The Australian National University, Canberra.

Housing, Land, and Property Rights in Post-Conflict United Nations and Other Peace Operations Scott Leckie, 2009. This book is about the UN's role in housing, land and property rights in countries after violent conflict.

Transformations in Independent Timor-Leste Susana de Matos Viegas, Rui Feijó, 2017-07-14. Conclusion, individual agency and person. Notes, References, Index.

Timor-Leste Andrea Katalin Molnar, 2009-12-17. This book provides a comprehensive country overview of Southeast Asia's newest nation, Timor-Leste (East Timor). This book focuses on its cultural and ethno-linguistic diversity and its political history from the pre-Portuguese period up to 2009. The book pays particular attention to the historical roots of the current challenges to nation building by reviewing the Indonesian occupation guerrilla warfare by the Timorese against the occupiers the politics leading up to the United Nations popular consultation and the vote for independence in 2002 Explaining the structure of the government and its parliamentary system this book highlights the problems and historical and cultural underpinnings of the challenges Timor Leste faces in building a stable viable nation The author presents a synopsis of selected issues including language truth and reconciliation the Catholic Church s political activism internal security problems the politics of oil and the fact that violent conflicts from 2005 to date have made it necessary for the United Nations peacekeeping forces to return Thus far the book argues Timor Leste s nation building efforts have been hampered by the dynamic interaction of number of national and international factors The first comprehensive political and cultural history of East Timor to date this book fills a gap and will be an important single reference resource for students and researchers in the field of Southeast Asian Studies Anthropology and Political Science

A New Era? Sue Ingram,Lia Kent,Andrew McWilliam,2015-09-17 Timor Leste has made impressive progress since its historic achievement of independence in 2002 From the instability that blighted its early years the fledgling democratic country has achieved strong economic growth and a gradual reinstatement of essential social services A decade on in 2012 Presidential and Parliamentary elections produced smooth political transitions and the extended UN peacekeeping presence in the country came to an end But significant challenges remain This book a product of the inaugural Timor Leste Update held at The Australian National University in 2013 to mark the end of Timor Leste s first decade as a new nation brings together a vibrant collection of papers from leading and emerging scholars and policy analysts Collectively the chapters provide a set of critical reflections on recent political economic and social developments in Timor Leste The volume also looks to the future highlighting a range of transitions prospects and undoubted challenges facing the nation over the next 5 10 years Key themes that inform the collection include nation building in the shadow of history trends in economic development stability and social cohesion and citizenship democracy and social inclusion The book is an indispensable guide to contemporary Timor Leste

Country Frameworks for Development Displacement and Resettlement Susanna Price,Jane Singer,2019-03-28 The problem of escalating population displacement demands global attention and country co ordination This book investigates the particular issue of development induced displacement whereby land is seized or restricted by the state for the purposes of development projects Those displaced by these schemes often risk losses to their homes livelihoods food security and socio cultural support for which they are rarely fully compensated Bringing together 22 specialist researchers and practitioners from across the globe this book provides a much needed independent analysis of country frameworks for development induced displacement spanning Asia Africa Central and South America As global competition for land increases public and private sector lenders are lightening their social safeguards shifting the oversight for protecting the displaced to national law and regulations This raises a central question Do countries have effective ways of addressing the risks and lost opportunities for their people who are displaced While many countries remain impervious to the problem the book also shines a light on the few who are pioneering new legislation and strategies intended to address questions such as should the social costs to those displaced help determine whether a project meets the public interest and merits financing Does the modern state need powers of eminent domain How can country laws systems institutions and negotiations be reformed to protect citizens better against disempowering public and private sector development displacement This book will interest those working on forced and voluntary migration property and expropriation law human rights environmental and social impact assessment internal and refugee displacement from conflicts environment change disasters and development

Southeast Asian Affairs 2001 Daljit Singh,Anthony Smith,2001 Southeast Asian Affairs of which there are now twenty eight in the series is an annual review of significant developments and trends in the region Though the emphasis is on ASEAN countries developments in the broader Asia Pacific region are not ignored Readable and easily understood analyses are offered of major political economic social and strategic developments within Southeast Asia The contributions can be divided into two broad categories There are those which provide an analysis of major developments during 2000 in individual Southeast Asian countries and in the region generally Then there are the theme articles of a more specialized nature which deal with topical problems of concern This volume contains twenty three articles dealing with such major themes as international conflict and co operation political stability and economic growth and development

Rationality, Democracy, and Justice Claudio López-Guerra,Julia Maskivker,2015-02-05 This volume advances the research agenda of one of the most remarkable political thinkers of our time Jon Elster With an impressive list of contributors it features studies in five topics in political and social theory rationality and collective action political and social norms democracy and constitution making transitional justice and the explanation of social behavior Additionally this volume includes chapters on the development of Elster s thinking over the past decades Like Elster s own writings the essays in this collection are problem driven non ideal inquiries of practical relevance This volume closes with lucid comments by Jon Elster

Property and Sovereignty James Charles Smith,2016-04-15 This book explores the relationships between property and the concept of sovereignty from a number of different perspectives It distinguishes between the dual meaning of sovereignty in property discourse political sovereignty and owner sovereignty The contributors discuss the nature of sovereignty in both senses applying it to a wide range of topics such as the evolution of property rights in fragile and conflict affected nation states and notions of sovereign property in new worlds A section on the Arts illuminates the relationships between property sovereignty and culture and a further section investigates regulatory property and governmental control over resources The book concludes with an exploration of sovereign shaping of private property entitlements to achieve instrumental ends This interesting collection will be valuable to those in the fields of legal philosophy property theory international and comparative law and political sociology This book explores the relationships between property and the concept of sovereignty from a

Housing and Property Restitution Rights of Refugees and Displaced Persons Scott Leckie, 2007-05-28 The legal recognition of the housing land and property rights of refugees and displaced persons has expanded steadily in recent years as the realization has grown that securing these rights will be beneficial to long term peace stability economic vitality and justice This volume first published in 2007 contains more than 240 of the laws cases and materials that have been adopted during the past century which accord those unjustly and arbitrarily displaced from their homes and lands with rights not simply to return to their countries or places of origin but to return to the original home land or property from which they were initially forced to flee The breadth of the restitution standards found within this volume combined with selected examples of case law and other materials are a clear indication that a right to housing land and property restitution for refugees and displaced persons has emerged within the global legal domain

Becoming Landowners Victoria C. Stead, 2016-10-31 Across Melanesia the ways in which people connect to land are being transformed by processes of modernization globalization the building of states and nations practices and imaginaries of development the legacies of colonialism and the complexities of postcolonial encounters Melanesian peoples are becoming landowners Stead argues both in the sense that these processes of change compel forms of property relations and in the sense that landowner and custom landowner become identities to be wielded against the encroachment of both state and capital In places where customary forms of land tenure have long been dominant deeply intertwined with senses of self and relationships with others land now becomes a crucible upon which social relations power and culture are reconfigured and reimagined Employing a multi sited ethnographic approach Becoming Landowners explores these transformations to land and life as they unfold across two Melanesian countries The chapters move between coasts and inland mountain ranges between urban centers and rural villages telling the stories of people and places who are always situated and particular but who also share powerful commonalities of experience These include a subsistence based community shaped by the legacies of colonialism and occupation in remote Timor Leste villagers in Papua New Guinea resisting a mining operation and the government agents supporting it an urban East Timorese settlement resisting eviction by the nation state its residents hoped would represent them in the post independence era and people and groups in both countries who are struggling for with and sometimes against the formal codification of their claims to land and place In each of these instances customary and modern forms of connection to land are propelled into complex and dynamic configurations theorized here in an innovative way as entanglements of custom and modernity Moving between multiple sites scales and forms of collectivity Becoming Landowners reveals entanglements as spaces of deep ambivalence Here structures of power are destabilized in ways that can lend themselves to the diminishing of local autonomy in the face of the state and capital At the same time the destabilization of power also creates new possibilities for the reassertion of that autonomy and of the customary forms of connection to land in which it is grounded
