of its practical application have value to current and future practitioners of policy analysis as well as to researchers in the policy sciences This volume seeks to facilitate such exposure by drawing together into a convenient collection the fine articles on CBA and its application that have appeared in the Journal of Policy Analysis and Management JPAM Study of Optimal Travel Speed Limits for Shared Traffic Jian Yang,2004 This report summarizes the results of the work performed under the project Study of Optimal Travel Speed Limits for Shared Traffic The objectives of the research were to determine if a 25 mph speed limit addresses safety needs of bicyclists and pedestrians sharing roadway with vehicles to recommend a method to assess and set speed limits for shared use of public right of way by motor vehicle bicycle and pedestrian traffic and to recommend optimum speed limits for shared use bicycle motor vehicle traffic in terms of different perspectives for low volumes low speeds and road geometry Effects of Raising and Lowering Speed Limits on Selected Roadway

Sections Martin R. Parker,1997 The objective of this research was to examine the effects of raising and lowering posted speed limits on driver behavior for urban and rural nonlimited access highways Sites selected for study were furnished by the participating States The study was conducted during the period from October 1985 to September 1992 when the maximum speed limit was 55 mi h 89 km h on nonlimited access highways During this period the States and localities lowered and raised posted speed limits on short roadway segments typically less than 2 mi 3.2 km in length Intelligent

Transportation Systems Benefits ,1999 This report continues the emphasis in documenting evaluation results of ITS user services and the benefits these services provide to the surface transportation system It is intended to be a reference report It highlights the benefits identified by other authors and refers the reader to information sources The interested reader is encouraged to obtain source documents to appreciate the assumptions and constraints placed on the interpretation of results

International Conference on Applications of Advanced Technologies in Transportation Engineering ed Hendrickson,1998 Reducing Fog-related Crashes on the Afton and Fancy Gap Mountain Sections of I-64 and I-77 in Virginia Cheryl Lynn,2002 The Fancy Gap and Afton Mountain interstates have a long history of fog related multivehicle crashes Because of its earlier involvement in the installation and evaluation of the original Afton Mountain in pavement fog guide light system and concerns about continuing fog crash problems the Virginia Transportation Research Council VTRC created an expert panel made up of decision makers from the Virginia Department of Transportation VDOT and the Virginia Department of State Police VSP Personnel from the Virginia Tech Transportation Institute and VTRC staffed the panel After detailed crash analyses a review of the literature on fog and its effects and an extensive survey of fog mitigation systems in the United States and abroad the panel issued the following recommendations 1 Install variable message signs VMSs immediately prior to the most fog prone areas to warn drivers of detected incidents fog related vehicle stops or slowdowns ahead Use highway advisory radio within the fog zone to communicate with drivers 2 Install video cameras on the Afton and Fancy Gap fog areas to allow police and VDOT officials to confirm the presence of high density fog areas and to allow the public to better plan their travel routes Explore the use of ultra low temperature infrared video cameras to penetrate fog 3 Increase police visibility in the fog areas to improve compliance with posted speed limits and advisory limits including increased patrols and possible staff assignments to I 77 at Fancy Gap and I 64 at Afton 4 Seek authorization for experimental use of advisory and regulatory variable speed limits on I 77 as part of the new Fancy Gap fog mitigation system 5 Conduct research to improve the legibility and visibility of VMSs in fog Also study the effectiveness of static signs augmented with strobes and lasers to warn drivers of detected incidents and slowdowns in the fog zone Because the panel represented multiple levels of VDOT and VSP and had extensive experience with the fog problems under consideration a wide variety of solutions were offered for consideration and each was judged from a variety of perspectives The result was that only practical applicable and highly effective solutions were chosen for implementation Because the group had representatives with extensive technical expertise in intelligent transportation systems ITS to advise them they had confidence that their recommendations would be both workable and effective It may be that this method of building consensus and support can be used as a model to promote deployment of ITS technologies to serve site specific safety problems
