Ingpen, 1909 Women as Letter-Writers Ada M. Ingpen, 2015-07-03 Excerpt from Women as Letter Writers A Collection of Letters Letter writing like so many time honoured institutions is becoming a lost art it seems to have fallen into disuse with the quill pen Formerly for those who were separated by distance the voluminous letter was the most usual means of interchanging family news thoughts and ideas But nowadays with the ever increasing facilities for quick travelling the necessity has passed for the old fashioned letter so often a faithful record of daily life and opinions and time can no longer be spared for the art of correspondence It seems unlikely therefore that the present age will produce many such letters as were written in the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries Literary men have been justly famous for their correspondence but women with a few brilliant exceptions have not taken a foremost place in the ranks of great letter writers About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works
