Renaissance Drama by Women is a true breakthrough for the study of women's literature and performance Life of the lady Arabella Stuart, containing a biographical memoir, and a collection of her letters Emily Tennyson Smith, 1889 The Oxford Handbook of Early Modern Women's Writing in English, 1540-1700 Elizabeth Scott-Baumann, Danielle Clarke, Sarah C. E. Ross, 2022-09-22 The Oxford Handbook of Early Modern Women's Writing in English 1540-1700 brings together new work by scholars across the globe from some of the founding figures in early modern women's writing to those early in their careers and defining the field now. It investigates how and where women gained access to education, how they developed their literary voice through varied genres including poetry, drama, and letters, and how women cultivated domestic and technical forms of knowledge from recipes and needlework to medicines and secret codes. Chapters investigate the ways in which women's writing was an integral part of the intellectual culture of the period, engaging with male writers and traditions while also revealing the ways in which women's lives and writings were often distinctly different from women prophetesses to queens, widows, and servants. It explores the intersections of women writing in English with those writing in French, Spanish, Latin, and Greek in Europe and in New England, and argues for an archipelagic understanding of women's writing in Scotland, Wales, Ireland, and England. Finally, it reflects on and challenges the methodologies which have developed in and with the field: book and manuscript history, editing, digital analysis, premodern critical race studies, network theory, queer theory, and feminist theory. The Oxford Handbook of Early Modern Women's Writing in English 1540-1700 captures the most innovative work on early modern women's writing in English at present. The Lady's Magazine and Museum, 1837

Johnson, 2016-04-01 Though the gender coded soul body dynamic lies at the root of many negative and disempowering depictions of women Sarah Johnson here argues that it also functions as an effective tool for redefining gender expectations Building on past criticism that has concentrated on the debilitating cultural association of women with the body she investigates dramatic uses of the soul body dynamic that challenge the patriarchal subordination of women Focusing on two tragedies two comedies and a small selection of masques from approximately 1592 1614 Johnson develops a case for the importance of drama to scholarly considerations of the soul body dynamic which habitually turn to devotional works sermons and philosophical and religious treatises to elucidate this relationship Johnson structures her discussion around four theatrical relationships each of which is a gendered relationship analogous to the central soul/body dynamic puppeteer and puppet tamer and tamed ghost and haunted and observer and spectacle Through its thorough and nuanced readings this study redefines one of the period's most pervasive analogies for conceptualizing women and their relations to men as more complex and shifting than criticism has previously assumed It also opens a new interpretive framework for reading representations of women adding to the ongoing feminist re-evaluation of the kinds of power women might actually wield despite the patriarchal strictures of their culture American Hereford Journal, 1922

Women and Portraits in Early Modern Europe Andrea Pearson, 2016-12-05 As one of the first books to treat portraits of early modern women as a discrete subject this volume considers the possibilities and limits of agency and identity for women in history and with particular attention to gender as categories of analysis for women's images Its nine original essays on Italy the Low Countries Germany France and England deepen the usefulness of these analytical tools for portraiture Among the book's broad contributions it dispels false assumptions about agency's possibilities and limits showing how agency can be located outside of conventional understanding and conversely how it can be stretched too far It demonstrates that agency is compatible with relational gender analysis especially when alternative agencies such as spectatorship are taken into account It also makes evident the importance of aesthetics for the study of identity and agency The individual essays reveal among other things how portraits broadened the traditional parameters of portraiture explored transvestism and same-sex eroticism appropriated aspects of male portraiture to claim those values for their sitters and as sites for gender negotiation resistance and debate invoked considerable relational anxiety Richly layered in method the book offers an array of provocative insights into its subject The American Hereford Record and Hereford Herd Book American Hereford Cattle Breeders' Association, 1920 Brief history of Hereford cattle v 1 p 359-375
