Lake Regions Of Central Africa:

The Lake Regions of Central Africa Richard Francis Burton, 2011-05-19 Sir Richard Francis Burton 1821-90 was an explorer who began his career in the Bombay army in 1842. While in India he developed his linguistic talent, mastering more than forty different languages and dialects. He turned to writing books in the 1850s and over the remaining forty years of his life published dozens of works and more than 100 articles. In this two-volume work published in 1860, Burton discusses geographical and ethnological matters while also giving space to the picturesque points of view which the subject offers in recounting his journey to Zanzibar and around the lakes in present-day Tanzania. In Volume 1, Burton begins his expedition on the island of Zanzibar before moving inland to explore the Kingani and Mgeta Rivers. He crosses the Usagara mountains and ends the volume in Unyamwezi, the far-famed land over the moon.

Excerpt from The Lake Regions of Central Africa. A Record of Modern Discovery. Africa is the continent with which man civilized man has had perhaps the longest acquaintance and concerning which he still knows least. It has been a mystery to him since the earliest ages and he is only now beginning to penetrate the real heart of the secret. Probably it was on the rich soil of Egypt that the first geographer traced the first chart and the first astronomer began to take observations of the sun, moon, and stars and it may have been on the flood of the Nile that the first mariner dared to trust himself on the fickle bosom of the waters. Since then the searchers after knowledge have gone far afield and learned much. New worlds have been discovered and peopled and the whole face of nature has been changed. The Lake Regions of Central Africa Sir Richard Francis Burton,1860 This book contains a detailed description of a personal adventure into the Central African Lake Regions The volume is a combination of an exposition of popular and picturesque points of views and a geography and ethnology of the area The Lake Regions of Central Africa Sir Richard Francis Burton,2001-06-12 Burton describes his three year voyage throughout Central Africa from 1856 1859

"The" Lake Regions of Central Africa Richard Francis Burton,2007-05 This was Richard Burton s second expedition into the interior of Somalia in his search for its reputed great lakes long rumoured to be the source of the great river Nile His first venture with fellow explorer John Hanning Speke had ended badly when their camp was attacked and both men were lucky to escape with their lives Burton receiving a spear thrust through both cheeks On this trip he was again accompanied by Speke and in 1857 they left Zanzibar on the east coast of Africa for the interior Their journey took them to Lake Tanganyika Speke then famously discovered the vast Victoria Nyanza Lake Victoria while Burton lay sick During the trip they were both beset by illness and bedevilled by a myriad of other problems all described in extensive but arresting detail by Burton in this two volume set compiled from the detailed daily journals that he maintained through everything Speke returned first to London and when Burton followed he found that his subordinate breaking a promise to Burton to withhold his report to the Royal Geographical Society until Burton returned had claimed the glory for himself of discovering the sole source of the Nile Despite Burton s doubts Speke s claim was confirmed by another expedition he made to the region in the company of the young explorer James Grant The public feud between Burton and Speke ended only with Speke s death while shooting on the eve of a great debate with Burton at Bath whether by design or accident no one knows These volumes were published shortly after their return and the Preface bears witness to Burton s animosity towards Speke an unattractive and inarticulate man less brilliant than Burton but a more successful explorer This is a classic of exploration as colourful as its author *The Lake Regions of Central Africa.
