Lammas Field:

Sherington Fiefs and Fields of a Buckinghamshire Village A. C. Chibnall, 1965-01-02 This 1965 study examines the feudal and economic development of a village from Norman times to the nineteenth century Book of reference, containing the names of the owners ... of the lands ... to be taken for the purposes ... of a line of railway. [3 pt.

With MS. notes]. Oxford, Coventry and Burton-on-Trent junction railway, 1845 Flowers of the Field Steve

Nicholls, 2019-10-03 From the machair grasslands of the Outer Hebrides to the chalk cliffs of Kent and from the dense pinewoods of Abernethy forest to the wetlands of the Fens of eastern England Britain offers a richly varied array of habitats for our wild flowers The distinguished science and natural history producer and filmmaker Steve Nicholls presents a visually stunning survey of Britain's best loved wildflowers illustrated with his own beautiful photographs of flora in their habitat Focusing on three broad habitats grassland open land and woodland he offers a biologically rigorous but engagingly readable account of our wild flowers and the places that nourish them He probes deep into the social and cultural history of wild flowers to tell a plethora of fascinating stories from the daffodil trains which transported Londoners to the golden triangle in Gloucestershire to experience woodlands carpeted with wild daffodils to the odd case of the Bath asparagus which isn't an asparagus at all but rather the edible flower buds of the rare spiked star of Bethlehem which used to grow in abundance around Bath Landscape and Society in Dumnonia Stephen Rippon, 2025-08-15 Explores South West England's development from the Iron Age through medieval times focusing on Ipplepen This book explores the distinctive landscape and society of South West England that had emerged by the Iron Age and which continued to develop during the Roman and medieval periods A focus of the research was the long term programme of survey and excavation on the Iron Age Roman and early medieval settlement at Dainton Elms Cross in Ipplepen Devon which included the only Roman roadside settlement to have seen extensive excavation to the south and west of Exeter on the very edge of the Roman empire as well as a substantial early medieval cemetery First discovered through the reporting of an unusual concentration of Roman finds to the Portable Antiquities Scheme the site was investigated through a joint university and community project led by the University of Exeter in partnership with the British Museum PAS Devon County Council and Cotswold Archaeology What for the South West of England was exceptional preservation meant that large amounts of animal bone charred cereals and human remains were preserved alongside a regionally important material culture assemblage The site which had been occupied for c 1200 years was abandoned around the 8th century AD A programme of documentary place name and historic landscape research across a study area extending from the coast up onto Dartmoor explores the context of this major landscape change which appears to have been associated with the appearance of hamlets and open fields and the fragmentation of an early folk territory Together the excavations in Ipplepen and the wider contextual research reveal how communities living in South West England developed a distinctive identity that reflects a well developed understanding of their region's natural environment alongside a degree of ambivalence to outside cultural influences English Field Names John Field,1989 Central Criminal Court. Minutes of Evidence Great Britain. Central Criminal Court,1838 , The Oxford Handbook of Later Medieval Archaeology in Britain Christopher Gerrard,Alejandra Gutiérrez,2018-01-11 The Middle Ages are all around us in Britain The Tower of London and the castles of Scotland and Wales are mainstays of cultural tourism and an inspiring cross section of later medieval finds can now be seen on display in museums across England Scotland and Wales Medieval institutions from Parliament and monarchy to universities are familiar to us and we come into contact with the later Middle Ages every day when we drive through a village or town look up at the castle on the hill visit a local church or wonder about the earthworks in the fields we see from the window of a train The Oxford Handbook of Later Medieval Archaeology in Britain provides an overview of the archaeology of the later Middle Ages in Britain between AD 1066 and 1550 61 entries divided into 10 thematic sections cover topics ranging from later medieval objects human remains archaeological science standing buildings and sites such as castles and monasteries to the well preserved relict landscapes which still survive This is a rich and exciting period of the past and most of what we have learnt about the material culture of our medieval past has been discovered in the past two generations This volume provides comprehensive coverage of the latest research and describes the major projects and concepts that are changing our understanding of our medieval heritage Court and Society from Elizabeth to Anne William Drogo Montagu,2022-03-11 Reprint of the original first published in 1864 Court and Society from Elizabeth to Anne William Montagu (7th Duke of Manchester),1864 Court and Society from Elizabeth to Anne William Drogo Montagu Manchester (7th duke of),1864 The Law Times Reports of Cases Decided in the House of Lords, the Privy Council, the Court of Appeal ... An Essay in Economic History Frederic Seebohm,2024-02-28 Reprint of the original first published in 1883 The Transformation of a Peasant Economy John Goodacre,2017-07-28 The market town has been dismissed as an incompletely formed urban community in fact it was the primary urban unit in pre industrial England This study places the market town at the centre of the transformation of early modern England both catalysing changes in agriculture and experiencing in a distinctive fashion the urbanisation that was to occur a century or more later in the great industrial and commercial centres of Europe In the two centuries after 1500 the rural economy changed from a pattern of subsistence to improved farming The first great enclosures took place during this time but the economic base for this revolution was the growth of local trading centred on markets and local communications networks This redistribution of produce provisions and information was the motor of specialisation and hence modernisation The strength of this study is in its detailed research into this process in one representative locality and the sensitive extrapolation of local experiences on to the national and European scale By integrating in one book the themes of rural transformation and early urbanisation this account of one typical midland market town demonstrates the continuing vigour of the discipline of local history
