Koontz,Sudarshan C. Khanal ,Prakash Katwal,Kabir R. Sthapit,Shruti Khadka Mishra,2014-03-01 This national level study conducted by Asia Network for Sustainable Agriculture and Bioresources ANSAB and its consortium partners on behalf of the Multi Stakeholder Forestry Programme MSFP of Nepal assesses and analyses the current status and future potential of developing economically viable and socially and environmentally responsible forest based industries leading to sustainable green and inclusive development model in Nepal The study has prioritized forest enterprises along four major subsectors namely timber non timber forest products ecosystem services especially ecotourism and carbon and forest bioenergy and developed a thorough understanding of the current status and future potential of the private sector involvement and investment in these subsectors along with the development of appropriate intervention strategies Women, Land and Power in Asia Govind Kelkar,Maithreyi Krishnaraj,2020-11-29 Across the world women constitute an integral part of the agricultural sector This volume is based on feminist responses to farming women s struggle for economic rights and social justice in Asia and seeks to provide a greater understanding of the development consequences of women s marginal limited ownership rights to land and other productive assets Using comprehensive analyses quantitative and qualitative data and case studies from India China Bangladesh Bhutan Nepal and other countries of the Asia Pacific region this volume brings together scholars and activists engaged with women s unmediated entitlement to land and productive assets While generally taking a position in favour of asset redistribution the volume addresses two major issues first the conflict between legal measures and socio cultural norms in a context where laws that seek to secure gender equality and women s economic empowerment are often overruled by norms that favour men and second how changes in the global economy in relation to traditional farming practices have adversely impacted women s rights especially in regions where they previously enjoyed more customary rights in asset control and management The book draws attention to issues of economic security gender equitable access to resources and asset building human rights and law land based livelihoods caste and ethnic diversity and voices in the women s movements This book will be useful to policy makers civil society organisations researchers and students of gender and women s studies development studies sociology economics and agriculture Landownership and the gender gap in agriculture: Disappointing insights from Northern Ghana Yokying, Phanwin,Lambrecht, Isabel,2019-06-13 Land provides the basis for food production and is an indispensable input for economic livelihoods in rural areas Landownership is strongly associated with social and economic power not only across communities and households but also within households The link between landownership and women s empowerment has been relatively well documented in general but not specifically in relation to agriculture This paper aims to fill this gap by analyzing how ownership of land is associated with agency and achievements in agriculture among female and male farmers in northern Ghana a region transitioning from customary land tenure without individual ownership rights towards a more individualized and market based tenure system We use a recursive bivariate probit model and focus on eight different indicators in four distinct domains decisions on agricultural cultivation decisions on farm income agricultural association membership and time allocation Our empirical estimates indicate that landownership is positively correlated with men s and women s agency in agriculture namely in decisions on agricultural cultivation and membership in agricultural association Yet we also find that the gender gaps in participation in cultivation decisions the use of agricultural earnings and in agricultural workload continue to persist among those who own land While the results underscore the importance of land as a resource that can enhance women s agency they also point out that policies aiming to solely advance land rights may not be sufficient to eradicate or even reduce gender inequality in agriculture

Land and Territoriality Michael Saltman,2020-05-26 In the past territorial conflict usually involved major powers seeking hegemony over strategic spaces and resources More recently however the decline of opposing global power blocs has elevated ethnicity to a prime cause of conflict over land This book considers the multiple roles ethnicity plays in fostering territorial conflicts both violent and non violent across the globe While land disputes relating to nationalism have resulted in the loss of human life in some regions in others ties between ethnicity and land are asserted more peacefully Nationalism and challenges to the validity of the links between people and places have caused widespread bloodshed in the disputed territory of Palestine involving competing claims of Arabs and Jews have led to war In North America however indigenous Indians claims to land are settled in the courts rather than through violence This book shows how human behaviour is affected by the multiple ways in which people identify with land topography and natural resources In doing so it highlights the growing trend towards defining physical space in specific ethnic contexts associated with a contemporary world that facilitates global movement factor of society Inequality exists as an integral attribute of human development Communities nations and systems are not evolving at the same speed and rate and thus require different resources in different amounts However the distribution of winnings is also uneven due to the multidimensionality of influencing factors When we talk about inequality it is not just inequality of income or wealth it is first inequality in access to priorities and human needs to shelter to clean water air health care and also to appropriate vaccination systems and assistance security systems and safety guarantees for the future Past financial crises and the current pandemic shock has revealed bugs in the system shaking it and changing our perception of the norms We may have no doubts that inequality is an unsolved problem but now we need to find out is it unbeatable There is still lack of knowledge around how inequality has been grounded throughout human civilization why society is stratified and classified economically politically socially and religiously and why the discrimination due to gender sexual orientation country of origin language differences immigration status caste race and ethnicity This book addresses these issues in a holistic way as well as including case studies of various countries It tries to find out why inequality has been unbeatable and what would be the best policies to overcome this challenge Landownership in Nepal Mahesh Chandra Regmi, 1999-01-01
