Contractors on Deployed Military Operations: United Kingdom Policy and Doctrine, 2005 Since the Cold War the United States and United Kingdom UK armed services have undergone significant transformation in response to the radically altered threat environment new operational demands and reduced defense budgets Central to this transformation in both states is an expanded role for private contractors in providing deployed support functions traditionally conducted by uniformed personnel Despite the similar direction of military reform the U S armed services approach to battlefield outsourcing has undergone extensive public scrutiny and debate whereas UK Ministry of Defence MoD initiatives have hitherto attracted comparatively little independent assessment Close U S UK military cooperation over recent years in Afghanistan and Iraq and the likelihood that both states will remain close allies in future interventions suggest that the UK MoD s approach to deployed contractor support is a salient issue for U S military planners This monograph analyzes the MoD s outsourcing strategy and identifies those aspects of UK policy and doctrine that warrant consideration by the Department of Defense DoD and U S armed services Evaluation of the performance of MoD outsourcing policy and doctrine against measures of cost effectiveness and operational effectiveness reveals two broad observations The MoD has developed a number of novel command and control mechanisms that have succeeded in rationalizing and removing the risk in commercial battlefield support But the data necessary to evaluate the real impact of deployed outsourcing have yet to enter the public domain Similarly questions remain about the relative cost effectiveness of organic military provision and contractor alternatives Comparative analysis indicates that there are no fundamental differences in overarching MoD and DoD outsourcing philosophy but there are specific MoD initiatives that could enhance the U S armed services ability to manage their deployed contractor support 7

Privatizing Social Security Martin Feldstein,2008-04-15 This volume represents the most important work to date on one of the pressing policy issues of the moment the privatization of social security Although social security is facing enormous fiscal pressure in the face of an aging population there has been relatively little published on the fundamentals of essential reform through privatization Privatizing Social Security fills this void by studying the methods and problems involved in shifting from the current system to one based on mandatory saving in individual accounts
