Half A Lifetime Ago:

Half A Lifetime Ago Elizabeth Gaskell, 2023-05-23 A farmer in nineteenth century England is torn between love and her sense of duty in this novella by the author of Wives and Daughters and Cranford Susan Dixon is a hardworking respected farmer living alone in the Westmorland Dales in northwest England But that wasn't always the case She was once surrounded by her father and mother her brother and her beloved the handsome Michael Hurst Time and time again Susan is put to the test as tragedy forces her to make difficult decisions that will affect the lives of those around her as well as her own

Half A Life-Time Ago Elizabeth Gaskell, 2011-07-01 Popular nineteenth century writer Elizabeth Gaskell packed her fiction with the kind of riveting social details that keep contemporary readers and fans of historical drama glued to the page This collection of short stories offers a comprehensive introduction to her body of work which rivaled Dickens in terms of popularity at the height of her career

Half a Life-time Ago Elizabeth Cleghorn Gaskell, 2016-01-14 CHAPTER I Half a life time ago there lived in one of the Westmoreland dales a single woman of the name of Susan Dixon She was owner of the small farm house where she resided and of some thirty or forty acres of land by which it was surrounded She had also an hereditary right to a sheep walk extending to the wild fells that overhang Blea Tarn In the language of the country she was a Stateswoman Her house is yet to be seen on the Oxenfell road between Skelwith and Coniston You go along a moorland track made by the carts that occasionally came for turf from the Oxenfell A brook babbles and brattles by the wayside giving you a sense of companionship which relieves the deep solitude in which this way is usually traversed Some miles on this side of Coniston there is a farmstead a gray stone house and a square of farm buildings surrounding a green space of rough turf in the midst of which stands a mighty funereal umbrageous yew making a solemn shadow as of death in the very heart and centre of the light and heat of the brightest summer day On the side away from the house this yard slopes down to a dark brown pool which is supplied with fresh water from the overflowings of a stone cistern into which some rivulet of the brook before mentioned continually and melodiously falls bubbling The cattle drink out of this cistern The household bring their pitchers and fill them with drinking water by a dilatory yet pretty process The water carrier brings with her a leaf of the hound s tongue fern and inserting it in the crevice of the gray rock makes a cool green spout for the sparkling stream

A Lifetime Ago in Baghdad Zagheek Markarian, 2024-05-22 Armenians can make anywhere home They have faced different occupiers in their home country throughout generations while still maintaining their uniqueness They have also flourished culturally in several different countries Chameleon like yet distinct Armenians often incorporate the languages and cultures of those around them into their lives while honoring their unique heritage This includes those in Iraq where Armenians have a rich history spanning generations But histories can sometimes become diluted lost or purposefully skewed A Lifetime Ago in Baghdad An Armenian Family History is Zagheek Markarian s attempt to clear the air on the history of Armenian Iraqis and her own family history to celebrate the life of Armenians in Baghdad and offer those that come after her an account of this The book provides an encyclopedic look at this oft overlooked but essential history and personal insights into it both tragic and tender and sometimes dramatic as though they were ripped from the pages of a novel This collection of stories is an essential document as more Armenians are forced to leave Iraq and a demonstration of the values we should all strive to carry into the future
