European External Action provides a critical assessment of the practice of EU diplomacy in a key site of Africa European relations and the global development industry the Kenyan capital of Nairobi It analyses how the EU positions itself through its newly established diplomatic corps the European External Action Service EEAS and how it is perceived as a collective geopolitical actor by its external cooperation partners Going beyond existing studies on EU policy making in Brussels and African European relations more generally this book explores in a novel way the conduct of external relations and perceptions of the EU abroad Based on institutional ethnography within the EU Delegation in Nairobi and research affiliation with the University of Nairobi as well as interviews with leading individuals of Kenyan European interaction it analyses the practices processes and perceptions through which EU diplomacy is enacted and realised in a strategic node of global North South relations In light of the EU s claim as a key partner for developing countries and its ambition to be a major player in global politics European External Action thereby speaks not only to wider debates on the EU s role as a global and development actor but also provides new insights in the internal dynamics and the making of external agency in and through EU diplomacy

Globalization and Organization Gili S. Drori, John W. Meyer, Hokyung Hwang, 2006-05-18 All around the world societies are experiencing an explosion of organizations and organizing community clubs religious groups social movements as well as schools hospitals businesses and government agencies increasingly take the form of complex and formal organization Why Why is global society recast in this format and why so fiercely This book explores various dimensions of the trends of expansion formalization and standardization of organizing worldwide by exploring such organizational legacies as accounting business management corporate social responsibility and performance benchmarks Featuring contributions from prominent academics the book argues that these processes can be attributed to globalization and to its specific tendencies of universalism rationalization and rise of the modern notion of the strongly bounded and purposive social actor An application of institutional arguments to global issues the book will be of interest to academics and researchers of Organization Studies Sociology Political Science and Geography

Local Space, Global Life Luis Eslava, 2015-07-09 Local Space Global Life engages with the expansive ground level and intertwined operations of international law and the development project by discussing the current international focus on local jurisdictions Since the mid 1980s and through the discourse of decentralization municipalities and cities in emerging nations have become the preferred spaces in which to promote global ideals of human economic and environmental development Through an ethnographic study of Bogotá's recent development experience and the city's changing relation to its illegal neighbourhoods Luis Eslava interrogates this rationale and exposes the contradictions involved in the international turn to the local Attentive to historical and current transformations norms and praxis and both ideology and materiality he provides an innovative reading of the nature of international law and the development project and reveals their impact on local spaces and lives at the urban periphery of today's world order

Handbook of Central American Governance Diego Sanchez-Ancochea, Salvador Martí i Puig, 2013-12-17 Central America constitutes a fascinating case study of the challenges opportunities and characteristics of the process of transformation in today's global economy Comprised of a politically diverse range of societies this region has long been of interest to students of economic development and political change The Handbook of Central American Governance aims to describe and explain the manifold processes that are taking place in Central America that are altering patterns of social political and economic governance with particular focus on the impact of globalization and democratization Containing sections on topics such as state and democracy key political and social actors inequality and social policy and international relations in addition to in depth studies on five key countries Costa Rica Nicaragua El Salvador Honduras and Guatemala this text is composed of contributions from some of the leading scholars in the field No other single volume studies the current characteristics of the region from a political economic and social perspective or reviews recent research in such detail As such this handbook is of value to academics students and researchers as well as to policy makers and those with an interest in governance and political processes

Protecting the World's Children Sidsel Roalkvam, Desmond McNeill, Stuart Blume, 2013-05-09 Vaccination programmes now represent a major part of the effort devoted to improving the health of children in developing countries These donor funded programmes tend to be global in scope and focus on worldwide goals and targets such as polio eradication and the Millennium Development Goals Health policy makers at the national level are expected to implement these programmes in a standard manner and report progress according to a few standard indicators Pressures and incentives to achieve the targets set are then transmitted down to the community level health worker who actually meets the parents and children to implement the programmes Drawing on first hand original research in India and Malawi carried out by the contributors as well as existing literature Protecting the World's Children Immunisation policies and practices suggests that there is little or no scope allowed for the effects of variance in the way health systems work the difficulties and tensions faced by health workers or differences in the way people think about childhood illnesses that reflect cultural differences The book argues that the need to show progress can create distortions and lead to the production of misleading data and an unwillingness to report problems It proposes that vaccines could more effectively serve children's health needs if immunisation programmes are better understood and acknowledged and if local knowledge and realities were enabled to inform national and international health policy Written by an international interdisciplinary team of experts in immunisation policy Protecting the World's Children is an integrative study of immunisation policy and practice at a global national and community level and is an essential resource for researchers and practitioners in international and public health as well as professionals in international and development studies

Navigating Souths Michele Grigsby Coffey, Jodi Skipper, 2017-08 The work of considering imagining and theorizing the U S South in regional national and global contexts is an intellectual project that has been going on for some time Scholars in history literature and other disciplines have developed an advanced understanding of the historical social and cultural forces that have helped to shape the U S South However most of the debates on these subjects have taken place within specific academic disciplines with few attempts to cross engage Navigating Souths broadens these exchanges by facilitating transdisciplinary conversations about southern studies scholarship The fourteen original essays in Navigating Souths articulate questions about the significances of the South as a theoretical and literal home base for social science and humanities researchers They also examine challenges faced by researchers who identify as southern studies scholars as well as by those who live and work in the regional South and show how researchers have responded to these challenges In doing so this book project seeks to reframe the field of southern studies as it is currently being practiced by social science and humanities scholars and thus reshape historical and cultural conceptualizations of the region

Research Handbook on the Sociology of International Law Moshe Hirsch, Andrew Lang, 2018-11-30 Bringing together a highly diverse body of scholars this comprehensive Research Handbook explores recent developments at the intersection of international law sociology and social theory It showcases a wide range of methodologies and approaches including those inspired by traditional social thought as well as less familiar literature including computational linguistics performance theory and economic sociology The Research Handbook highlights anew the potential contribution of sociological methods and theories to the study of international law and illustrates their use in the examination of contemporary problems of practical interest to international lawyers State-Building and Tax Regimes in Central America Aaron

Schneider, 2012-03-12 In Central America dynamic economic actors have inserted themselves into global markets Elites atop these sectors attempt to advance a state building project that will allow them to expand their activities and access political power but they differ in their internal cohesion and their dominance with respect to other groups especially previously constituted elites and popular sectors Differences in resulting state building patterns are expressed in the capacity to mobilize revenues from the most dynamic sectors in quantities sufficient to undertake public endeavors and in a relatively universal fashion across sectors Historical quantitative and qualitative detail on the five countries of Central America are followed by a focus on El Salvador Honduras and Guatemala The greatest changes have occurred in El Salvador and Honduras has made some advances although they are almost as quickly reversed by incentives exemptions and special arrangements for particular producers Guatemala has raised revenues only marginally and failed to address problems of inequity across sectors and between rich and poor The Disaster of European Refugee Policy Marina Lukšič Hacin, Neža

Kogovšek Šalamon, Igor Ž. Žagar, 2019-01-29 This volume addresses the mass arrival of migrants and refugees in Europe in 2015 and 2016 and the crisis of response that unfolded across the continent The chapters critically discuss this crisis and help the reader to understand why the refugees and migrants fled what kind of response they faced and what was wrong with the reactions of the states Despite the fact that all the authors are based in Slovenia the volume transcends this particular state and covers theoretical and practical aspects of the crisis which are not geographically limited to only one country or region It addresses a variety of audiences such as students researchers sociologists political scientists lawyers geographers and philosophers and will appeal to those who seek to understand forced migration and refugee protection states responses to migration and asylum seekers and the rise of hate speech racism xenophobia and authoritarianism in Europe

Borderland Chrisanthi Giotis, 2022 Every two seconds a person is displaced caught in one of the more than 40 active conflicts around the world that show no sign of ending Since 1994 there has been ongoing war in the Democratic Republic of Congo which has uprooted millions of people and resulted in the deaths of millions more In the West we have entered a political era where our border policies are underpinned by unending wars At this critical juncture how can journalists especially those engaged in foreign correspondence tell these stories How can they make connections across time and space and across politics economics environments and crucially people Given its colonial history are these connections possible for the profession of foreign correspondence In Borderland Chrisanthi Giotis argues that decolonization is possible and necessary for the development of a truly global public sphere New global narratives need to meaningfully include the voices and knowledge of those with the least power who are caught in resource fuelled wars Drawing on insights from postcolonial studies international relations development studies and philosophy which are brought to life through auto ethnographic descriptions and analysis of behind the scenes events Giotis introduces new reporting techniques for foreign correspondents Borderland argues that decolonized reporting techniques will help journalists and their audiences move beyond the sociohistorical and political myopia that prevents us from communicating and understanding the reality of a complex world

Where Are All Our Sheep? Boris Petric, 2015-09-01 After the collapse of the USSR Kyrgyzstan chose a path of economic and political liberalization Only a few years later however the country ceased producing anything of worth and developed a dependence on the outside world particularly on international aid Its principal industry sheep breeding was decimated by reforms suggested by international institutions providing assistance Virtually annihilated by privatization of the economy and deserted by Moscow the Kyrgyz have turned this economic opening up into a subtle strategy to capture all manner of resources from abroad In this study the author describes the encounters sometimes comical and tinged with incomprehension between the local population and the well meaning foreigners who came to reform them Law and Social Theory Reza Banakar, Max Travers, 2014-07-18 There is a growing interest within law schools in the intersections between law and different areas of social theory The second edition of this popular text introduces a wide range of traditions in sociology and the humanities that offer provocative contextual views on law and legal institutions The book is organised into six sections each with an introduction by the editors on classical sociology of law systems theory critical approaches law in action postmodernism and law in global society Each chapter is written by a specialist who reviews the literature and discusses how the approach can be used in researching different topics New chapters include authoritative reviews of actor network theory new legal realism critical race theory post colonial theories of law and the sociology of the legal profession

Over half the chapters are new and the rest are revised in order to include discussion of recent literature Adult

Education and Lifelong Learning in Southeastern Europe George A. Koulaouzides, Katarina Popović, 2017-09-12

Contemporary adult education policy development and lifelong learning practice are experiencing an autonomy loss imposed by the dominant neoliberal economic paradigm. As a consequence in many countries especially those that depend economically from supranational organizations and donors the critical approach and its adjunct idea of emancipation have been sacrificed in favour of ambiguous developmental goals like employability flexibility and adaptability. On the other hand in many countries adult education as a social movement is deeply rooted in the conviction that learning is an essential process related to personal transformation and social change. The result of this conflict between the external pressure for policies in favour of the labour market and the internal assumption about the value of emancipation has led to interesting insights that have produced policies and practices that attempt to reconcile these two forces of development. In this volume we offer a consideration of the above paradoxical situation and the critical view of adult education policy and practice in the region of Southeastern Europe. Some chapters in this volume present also positive lifelong learning practices policy development analyses and conceptual understandings that highlight the efforts to develop adult education within a framework of the dominant neoliberal forces that shape European and international adult education policy.
