Kellett, 2008 Combat is one of the central themes of Middle High German narrative literature and of significant interest to medievalists in general Nevertheless few studies to date have attempted a detailed analysis of the depiction of combat in literary texts Rachel Kellett uses an inclusive approach to the details of combat descriptions in order to analyse minutely the scenes of single combat and battle presented in two major narrative works by Der Stricker the epic Karl der Grosse and the Arthurian romance Daniel von dem Bluhenden Tal written between 1220 and 1250 The author compares these works with a wide range of other texts both French and German and investigates the relationship between Stricker's depiction of combat and that found in the works of Hartmann von Aue and Wolfram von Eschenbach among others She also draws on historical research into medieval warfare tournament and the tradition of the judicial combat which adds valuable depth to her analysis of literary texts Overall this study provides new insights into the depiction of combat in Middle High German literature as a whole while at the same time highlighting hitherto unnoticed aspects of the writings of Der Stricker as an individual author and bringing a new perspective on the ambiguous role played by combat in the equally ambiguous Daniel von dem Bluhenden Tal Hitler's German Enemies Louis Leo Snyder, 1990 Snyder's emeritus CCNY reputation may be assured but this is drivel undocumented semi fictionalized accounts with comic book dialogue of 15 men and women who asserted their conscience over the demands of the state They deserve better RC Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc Portland OR
