Control of Violence

Wilhelm Heitmeyer,Heinz-Gerhard Haupt,Stefan Malthaner,Andrea Kirschner,2010-11-04 The Control of Violence in Modern Society starts from the hypothesis that in modern society we will face an increasing loss of control over certain phenomena of violence This leads to unpredictable escalations and violence can no longer be contained adequately by the relevant control regimes such as police state surveillance institutions national repression apparatuses and international law However before investigating this hypothesis from an internationally and historically comparative perspective the terms and tools for this undertaking have to be rendered more precisely Since both control and violence are all but clear cut terms but rather highly debatable and contested concepts that may take multiple connotations The main question is whether an increase in certain forms of violence can be explained by the failure or in turn overeffectiveness of certain control mechanisms It is asked for instance which contribution religion can make to limit violence and in turn which destructive potential religion might have in its fundamentalist form Moreover the concept of individual self control as well as social institutions and strategies of collective disengagement and de radicalization are investigated with regard to their potential for controlling violence The Control of Violence in Modern Society concludes with a re examination of the hypothesis of a loss of control by specifying in what cases and under which circumstances we can speak of a loss of control over violence

State Accountability for Environmental Damage in International Armed Conflict Aida Tamer Chammas, 2025-04-22 The book comprehensively analyses whether a State may be held responsible for environmental damage resulting from its wrongful conduct in international armed conflict. Focusing on elements of State responsibility, its main elements, obligations, damage, and standard of conduct under the law of armed conflict and international environmental law, the book covers war and occupation and other relevant applicable laws. This extends to international water and human rights law. It presents techniques to resolve conflicts of norms from different law branches when simultaneously applied and incorporates latest legal developments and potential impact on the subject. Engaging with detailed analysis of legal rules, the book highlights weaknesses within the law alongside proposing new interpretations of outdated notions. Practical application of the rules is illustrated by two cases of damage to land, Mediterranean Sea, and air pollution in the Israel-Hezbollah war in Lebanon 2006 and to the Occupied Palestinian Territory's natural resources, mainly land, water, and quarries. It concludes by examining mechanisms to enforce State responsibility. The book will be of interest to graduate law students, researchers, and practitioners in the field of international law, the law of armed conflict, international environmental and water law, and human rights law.
