Muslims and Christians Face to Face Kate Zebiri, 2014-10-01 From the Crusades to the present day the interrelationship between Islam and Christianity has been fraught with conflict both theological and military Yet events in 20th century history particularly the communications revolution have meant that after centuries of living in isolation from each other Christians and Muslims find themselves participating in the same intellectual culture and are having to review their assumptions about each other In this work Zebiri analyzes modern Muslim writings on Christianity and Christian writings on Islam to explore the issues central to Muslim Christian relations The literature surveyed is diverse both popular and scholarly varying in function authorship and intended audience Through its juxtaposition of the mutual perceptions of Muslims and Christians the book provides an overview of the more important contrasts and similarities between the two religions

Marxism, Christianity, and Islam Julian Roche, 2024-02-20 Roger Garaudy was for many years at the centre of the French Communist Party but was eventually expelled for his liberal views In the Seventies he strove to bring Marxism and Christianity together to include all humanity in a project to set all people free What emerges from Garaudy's project is a very modern Marxism with its emphasis on the individual its ecological politics and in its insistence on religion as central to human emancipation Although Garaudy himself became frustrated by the failure of Marxism and converted to Islam eventually resulting in his work being discredited in the West it is certainly possible that Garaudy's project represents a good perhaps even the best starting point for Marxism in today's world

A. R. Shadid,P. SJ. van

Koningsveld,1995 The permanent presence of Islam and Muslims approximately 7 million is a comparatively recent phenomenon in most countries of the European Community By far the greater majority of them consists of former inhabitants of the Muslim world who migrated to the West for economic or political reasons after the Second World War Over the last decades many initiatives have been launched by Muslim communities to create infrastructural provisions for their religious life within the existing legal and social frameworks In fact all countries of the European Community share the principles of religious freedom and non discrimination in their respective Constitutions However the precise way in which these principles are interpreted and applied to Islam depends largely on the historical traditions concerning the relations between State and Religion which differ from one country to another The present book is mainly based on the numerous articles and books concerning the public status of Islam in the various countries of Western Europe which were published between 1987 and 1994 First of all a comparative study is offered of the relation between State and Religion according to the constitutional traditions of the member states of the European Community Secondly the authors discuss the opportunities and obstacles in the realization of an organizational structure by the Muslim communities Attention is paid among others to the foundation of mosques the position of imams and the attempts to create representative bodies on the national level which can serve as negotiating partners with the national governments In a separate chapter attention is paid to Islam as a minority religion from a theoretical point of view Then follows a discussion of the possibilities for the observance of islamic customs and rituals such as religious holidays dietary laws and dress rules With regard to Islamic religious education attention is paid in the last chapter to religious education within mosques public Christian and Islamic schools At the end there is an extensive bibliography with an index of subjects and countries Ethical Exploration in a Multifaith Society Catherine

Shelley,2017-03-24 This book considers the theory and application of ethics for a multifaith society Much ethics taught in the UK has been dominated by Christian ethics their relation to secularism and by the Enlightenment s reaction against theology as a basis for ethical thought In contrast to these perspectives this book brings secular and theological ethics into dialogue considering the degree to which secular ethics has common roots with theological perspectives from various traditions The book assesses the application of ethical and theological principles in today s multifaith society Aiming to enhance ethical understanding and awareness across divergent worldviews identifying at what points divergence does occur the author examines topics such as reason and ethics in theology natural law utilitarianism and deontology and differences of approach to interpreting religious scriptures The focus on ethical methods is illustrated through topical concerns in religion and ethics for example sexuality marriage and education and religion in relation to global ethics and human rights Reenvisioning
