Financial Engineering of Climate Investment in Developing Countries Søren E. Lütken,2014-06-01 The Nationally Appropriate Mitigation Action NAMA is the new kid on the block in the battle against climate change The NAMA is the most decisive instrument devised to address the fact that today the only source of growing emissions are the world's developing countries But as it is based purely on voluntarism it crucially depends on financing models that can lift the concept off the ground This book provides the first insights as to how this concept can deliver on its promise and challenges some of the fundamental mantras in international climate change collaboration

Financing for Development - Enhancing the Financial Safety Net for Developing Countries International Monetary Fund,2015-11-06 Access to Fund financial resources provides a financial safety net to help countries manage adverse shocks acting as a potential supplement to foreign reserves when there is a balance of payments need Such support is especially important to developing countries with limited capacity to borrow in domestic or foreign markets This paper proposes a set of measures that would expand access to Fund resources for developing countries as one of the initiatives the Fund is undertaking as part of the wider effort of the international community to support countries in pursuing the post 2015 Sustainable Development Goals SDGs

Blended Finance in the Least Developed Countries 2019 OECD,United Nations Capital Development Fund,2019-07-16 What are the trends in blended finance for LDCs What can it achieve and how The OECD and UNCDF are working together to shed new light on these issues Building on a 2018 publication this edition presents the latest data available on private finance mobilised in developing countries by official development finance extending the previous analysis to cover 2016 and 2017 as well as longer term trends from 2012 to 2017

Independent Power Projects in Developing Countries Henrik M. Inadomi,2010-01-01 For developing countries a stable and secure supply of electricity is crucial for development and for their populations well being Since the early 1990s the main mechanism for constructing power generation facilities in developing countries has been the independent power project IPP model where a foreign investor enters into long term investment contracts with the national utility This model has succeeded in attracting investment but raises complex regulatory and contractual challenges in addition to public concerns This book drawing on project contracts the author's interview sources case law and literature analyzes in detail the legal investment protection used by IPP investors to ensure sufficient returns and protect their contracted revenue stream The author examines how the model's corporate financial structure interlocks with strong contractual rights and with a number of measures used to improve the host country's creditworthiness in the short and long term including investment guarantees The second part of the book identifies that the IPP model normally leads to six main consequences for the host developing country The IPP model has led to private investment which has increases reliability modernization and introduced private standards It contains an intrinsic structural weakness in times of economic downturns It has shown a tendency to lead to overinvestment in generation capacity It has shown a tendency to lead to expensive and suboptimal solutions regarding choice of design and technology The model and its institutional surroundings contains insufficient disincentives against moral hazard and exploitative behavior including corruption and The IPP model does not facilitate a further development of the host country's power sector The author argues that these consequences for development can be improved without detrimentally compromising the private sector's willingness to continue to invest While pursuing this analysis the author also explores such issues as the following the web of parties and contracts constituting the IPP model including the model's risk allocation an analysis of political risk including to what extent foreign investors also are protected against commercial and credit risks the competing needs of predictability and flexibility in long term contracts how investment arbitration tribunals have reacted both to the change in macroeconomic circumstances caused by the East Asian Crisis of 1997-98 and to numerable and credible allegations of corruption during procurement identification of factors reducing or increasing the IPP model's tendency to fail during severe economic recessions

Global Outlook on Financing for Sustainable Development 2023 No Sustainability Without Equity OECD, 2022-11-10 Successive crises including COVID-19 Russia's war of aggression in Ukraine and the climate emergency are exacerbating inequalities between and within countries and stifling progress to achieve the Sustainable Development Goals SDGs and the Paris Agreement While developed countries deployed historic stimulus packages to build back better developing countries lacked fiscal and monetary buffers to respond Countries with the fewest resources face challenging trade offs between short term rescue and long term financing for a sustainable recovery Climate Politics as Investment
Simon Wolf, 2013-05-23 Simon Wolf describes how the growing awareness for the economic consequences of climate change and the economic opportunities of climate protection has led to changes in the rationality of governing climate change from reducing emissions to building low carbon economies One crucial strategy for governments in orchestrating the transformation to cleaner economies is to enable low carbon investment The author therefore takes a critical look at how climate governance is reframed as an economic and investment challenge in recent years and reveals some of the blind spots of focusing on the economic and investment opportunities related to climate protection The Department of State Bulletin, 1975-07 Large-Scale Land Investments in Least Developed Countries Luis Tomás Montilla Fernández, 2017-11-09 This book analyses large scale land investments for agricultural purposes in Africa's least developed countries from a law and economics perspective Focusing on the effects of foreign land investments on host countries local populations and the apparent failure of international law to create incentives to offset them it also examines the legal and economic mechanisms to hold investors accountable in cases where their investment leads to human rights violations Applying principal agent and contract theory it elucidates the sources of opportunism and develops control mechanisms to ameliorate the negative effects It shows that although judicial mechanisms fail to deliver justice international law offers alternatives to safeguard against arbitrary and abusive state and investor conduct and also to effectuate human rights and thus tackle opportunistic behaviour

Finance & Development, March 2005 International Monetary Fund. External Relations Dept.,2005-03-01 This paper highlights that the current round of trade talks under the auspices of the World Trade Organization aims at better integrating developing countries especially the small and poor ones into the global trading system For that reason it was named the Doha Development Agenda when it was launched in late 2001 However more than three years on little progress has been made It took a late July 2004 accord outlining negotiating frameworks in agriculture and industrial products just to keep the talks afloat

International Investment Law and the Global Financial Architecture Christian J. Tams,Stephan W. Schill,Rainer Hofmann,2017-02-24 This book explores whether investment law should protect against such regulatory measures including where these have the support of multilateral institutions It considers where the line should be drawn between legitimate regulation and undue interference with investor rights and equally importantly who draws it

Mobilizing Private Climate Financing in Emerging Market and Developing Economies Mr. Ananthakrishnan Prasad,Ms. Elena Loukoianova,Alan Xiaochen Feng,William Oman,2022-07-27 Global investment to achieve the Paris Agreement s temperature and adaptation goals requires immediate actions first and foremost on climate policies Policies should be accompanied by commensurate financing flows to close the large financing gap globally and in emerging market and developing economies EMDEs in particular This note discusses potential ways to mobilize domestic and foreign private sector capital in climate finance as a complement to climate related policies by mitigating relevant risks and constraints through public private partnerships involving multilateral regional and national development banks It also overviews the role the IMF can play in the process

World's Transition Toward A Green Economy: Achieving The United Nations' Sustainable Development Goals And Promoting The Role Of Green Finance Xugang Yu,Mario Tettamanti,Cristiano Rizzi,2023-10-04 This book treats different themes which are intrinsically linked and of extreme significance for the entire global community such as the necessity to cut emissions and transit toward a more sustainable and green economy The content extends to the urgency to shape a new multilateralism and reinforce cooperation to achieve global goods where the environment comes first to the green finance which will play a fundamental role for the green transition paying particular attention to the United Nations 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development A particular emphasis is given to the so called Dual Circulation Strategy DCS which is presently becoming the priority not only for China but also for the rest of the global community Due to the uncertainties caused by the pandemic and other external factors China has substituted GDP growth with the so called six guarantees li b o which represent the six fundamental aspects of the economy and society that according to the central government must receive priority attention and protection in economic policy to ensure economic recovery China also introduced the concept of an ecological civilization sh ng t i w nm ng through green low carbon economic development One of the targets is to achieve carbon neutrality before 2060 though the rest of the global community and in particular the European Union with its Green Deal and the US with its renewed climate policies are pushing to reach this objective in 2050 In order to grant all these developments green finance plays a fundamental role for the success of this green transition Therefore a substantial part of this book explores the many aspects surrounding this theme Due to renewables playing a very important role in the green transition the final part of this book explores investment opportunities related to the development of these alternative sources of energy

Office of Media Services,1975 Emerging Financial Markets In The Global Economy David Nickerson,Larry Sawers,Daniel Schydlowsky,2000-03-24 The rapid emergence of active financial markets in a number of developing and transition countries during the 1990s is a momentous phenomenon Until recently most developing countries severely manipulated and repressed their financial markets The dramatic increase in the influence of neo liberal thinking and laissez faire governance in developing countries has recently led to serious capital market reform in scores of countries Most countries without financial market reform are anxiously studying their successful neighbors in order to adopt policies programs and regulations that have a proven track record This collection of papers addresses many of the important issues raised by these dramatic changes including restructuring pension systems organizing new equity markets designing financial systems to deal with systemic risk dealing with the overhang and bad debts and attracting foreign direct investments Several papers deal with informal credit markets examining the effect of informal finance on economic development and the exponential growth in microfinance by private financial institutions in Latin America and in the United States The book is intended for policy makers and scholars interested in capital markets in developing and transition economies It is also suitable for use as a supplementary text in upper level undergraduate and graduate courses in development finance
