American armies with rifles machetes and a few aged machine guns Others were full scale conflicts involving sophisticated armies equipped with tanks artillery and aircraft and hundreds of thousands of troops These wars often went largely unreported in the West which was preoccupied with its own problems in fighting two world wars and dealing with Cold War tensions Fully illustrated with a wealth of rare photographs this fascinating story sheds light on seven decades of a continent in conflict that is rarely covered in English

Donegan and the Panama Canal Thomas E. Morrissey, 2009-10-06

Donegan and the Panama Canal is a fictionalized first person story of why and how the United States built a canal in Panama in 1903 This story is a sequel to Mr Morrisseys previous novel of the Spanish American War Donegan and the Splendid Little War No one had previously written an historical novel of either of these events The title character of Donegan and the Panama Canal is Patrick Donegan 1875 1958 the son of Irish immigrants to Philadelphia Donegan belatedly wrote this memoir in 1953 but his grandson Thomas Morrissey did not publish it for another fifty years Patrick Donegan had previously served on a Spanish merchant ship for two years before its captain stranded him in Santiago de Cuba in 1895 He became a war profiteer during the Cuban revolt against Spain and wrote propaganda articles for the Cubans before William Randolph Hearst hired him to write for the New York Journal Donegan and the Splendid Little War relates how Donegan wrote biased pro Cuban stories for Hearst He telegraphed a misleading account of the explosion of the American battleship Maine which ultimately caused the United States to declare war on Spain He accompanied Theodore Roosevelt and the Rough Riders in their famous charge up San Juan Hill He published an exclusive eyewitness account of President McKinleys assassination but Hearst fired him when Joseph Pulitzer discovered that Donegan had written a short poem that may have inspired McKinleys assassin Donegan left the field of journalism and secretly became a lobbyist for the Panama Canal Donegan and the Panama Canal tells the story how Hearst ordered Donegan a year before he fired him in 1901 to sail around South America and disembark at the west coast of Nicaragua Hearst a Nicaraguan Canal partisan did not know that Donegan had already promised Philippe Bunau Varilla a French engineer who had served in Ferdinand de Lesseps earlier ill fated attempt to build a canal in Panama that he would support a Panama Canal Captain Michael Healy piloted the ship that carried Donegan during their long journey through the Strait of Magellan to Central America Donegan traveled through Nicaragua and interviewed her president and the American minister He wrote many negative articles about Nicaragua and warned the American public that many active and dangerous volcanoes flourished in Nicaragua that could easily destroy any canal built there Hearst appointed Donegan to cover the Washington political scene when he returned to New York Donegan accompanied Philippe Bunau Varilla when this French lobbyist promoted the Panama Canal in many speeches throughout the United States Bunau Varilla convinced Senator Mark Hanna President William McKinleys eminence grise that the Panama site was preferable to Nicaragua McKinley remained non committal about where to build the canal but Senator John Tyler Morgan of Alabama the chief Nicaragua advocate viciously attacked Philippe and Donegans Panama site After Hearst fired him after President McKinleys assassination Donegan sailed to France where he met William Nelson Cromwell the legal representative of the Panama Railroad and the New Panama Canal Company Donegan agreed to work with Cromwell on the canal question although he personally despised him Donegan conferred with Bunau Varilla in France but they quickly returned to America when they heard that Congress would soon vote on whether the canal should be built in Panama or Nicaragua All seemed lost when the House of Representatives overwhelmingly supported Nicaragua Bunau Varilla influenced the French Canal Company to lower the price for its canal concession and Donegan influenced President Roosevelt who previously favored Nicaragua to support the Panama site Congress had to make the final decision about the canal site Senator Morgans Committee on Interoceanic Canals supported the Nicaragua Canal Morgan and other senators argued that no can

The Greatest of All

Leathernecks Joseph Arthur Simon,2019-09-11 Joseph Arthur Simon s The Greatest of All Leathernecks is the first comprehensive biography of John Archer Lejeune 1867 1942 a Louisiana native and the most innovative and influential leader of the United States Marine Corps in the twentieth century As commandant of the Marine Corps from 1920 to 1929 Lejeune reorganized revitalized and modernized the force by developing its new and permanent mission of amphibious assault Before that transformation the corps was a constabulary infantry force used mainly to protect American business interests in the Caribbean a mission that did not place it as a significant contributor to the United States defense establishment The son of a plantation owner from Pointe Coupee Parish Lejeune enrolled at Louisiana State University in 1881 aged fourteen Three years later he entered the U S Naval Academy afterward serving for two years at sea as a midshipman In 1890 he transferred to the Marines where he ascended quickly in rank During the Spanish American War Lejeune commanded and landed Marines at San Juan Puerto Rico to rescue American sympathizers who had been attacked by Spanish troops A few years later he arrived with a battalion of Marines at the Isthmus of Panama part of Colombia at the time securing it for Panama and making possible the construction of the Panama Canal by the United States He went on to lead Marine expeditions to Cuba and Veracruz Mexico During World War I Lejeune was promoted to major general and given command of an entire U S Army division After the war Lejeune became commandant of the Marine Corps a role he used to develop its new mission of amphibious assault transforming the corps from an ancillary component of the U S military into a vibrant and essential branch He also created the Marine Corps Reserve oversaw the corps s initial use of aviation and founded the Marine Corps Schools the intellectual planning center of the corps that currently exists as the Marine Corps University As Simon masterfully illustrates the mission and value of the corps today spring largely from the efforts and vision of Lejeune
