A Feminist Ethnography of Secure Wards for Women with Learning Disabilities Rebecca Fish, 2017-11-13 What is life like for women with learning disabilities detained in a secure unit This book presents a unique ethnographic study conducted in a contemporary institution in England Rebecca Fish takes an interdisciplinary approach drawing on both the social model of disability and intersectional feminist methodology to explore the reasons why the women were placed in the unit as well their experiences of day to day life as played out through relationships with staff and other residents She raises important questions about the purpose of such units and the services they offer Through making the women s voices heard this book presents their experiences and unique perspectives on topics such as seclusion restraint and resistance Exploring how the ever present power disparity works to regulate women s behaviour the book shows how institutional responses replicate women s bad experiences from the past and how women's responses are seen as pathological. It demonstrates that women are not passive recipients of care but shape their own identity and futures sometimes by resisting the norms expected of them within allowed limits and sometimes by transgressing the rules. These insights thus challenge traditional institutional accounts of gender learning disability and deviance and highlight areas for reform in policy practice methodology and social theory. This ground breaking book will be of interest to scholars students policymakers and advocates working in the fields of learning disability and disability studies more widely gender studies and sociology.

EBOOK: Supporting Students with Literacy Difficulties: A Responsive Approach Ted Glynn, Janice Wearmouth, Mere Berryman, 2005-11-16. Arguably the most common sense and certainly the most informative contemporary text on literacy. Glynn Wearmouth and Berryman bring a wealth of experience to the field of literacy culture and family school collaboration. We are indebted to the authors for putting together such an informative and groundbreaking text that has overarching relevance in today's multicultural society. Dr Gavin Reid, University of Edinburgh, UK. A much needed text to counter the overly psychological approach to teaching literacy. It emphasizes a socio cultural approach which puts the focus on the interactive responsive and social elements of the child learning to read in relation to the world around them. Wally Penetito, Victoria University, New Zealand. In many countries school populations are becoming increasingly socially and culturally diverse and delivering effective literacy programmes is becoming more challenging and complex. This book shows schools how to address difficulties with literacy learning experienced by students of diverse backgrounds by employing strategies that respond to and affirm difference. This responsive approach actively engages with students prior knowledge and experiences and ensures that these are fully validated in the literacy activities of the classroom. The responsive approach includes members of students homes and communities collaborating to facilitate their participation in defining and delivering literacy programmes. This book illustrates ways in which teachers and other adults can create responsive social contexts at school and at home to enable all children to participate fully in reading writing and oral language activities in the classroom. It offers effective strategies for overcoming barriers to literacy learning including Reading tutoring that promotes comprehension and independence. Writing partnerships that respond to children's messages. Responsive feedback strategies. Interactive contexts that promote student responsibility for learning. Community and school collaboration to develop authentic learning tasks. Supporting Students with Literacy Difficulties: A Responsive Approach is key reading for teacher education students practising teachers and parents.
