Mentoring in Education Cedric Cullingford, 2016-04-22 Mentoring has become a hot topic in a number of professional spheres in recent years but its most important and longest established location is in education However this volume is the first wide ranging academic critique of the concept and its application Offering both a critical and a practical stance the authors examine the historical and cultural aspects of mentoring and the motivations behind it They also explore the effects on the individuals involved and on the system and examine the different approaches to the idea and implementation of mentoring Drawing contributions from Europe the USA and the Middle East this work considers a wide range of empirical studies of mentoring from those countries that have invested in it including case studies and analyses of current practice The book makes a major contribution not only on account of the international perspective it provides but also through analysis of cases in order to establish the difference between the much vaunted theoretical advantages promoted by policy makers and the everyday realities and complexities that arise in a scheme entirely dependent on personal relationships

Teaching Cooperative Learning Elizabeth G. Cohen, Celeste M. Brody, Mara Sapon-Shevin, 2012-02-01 Winner of the 2004 Critics Choice Award presented by the American Educational Studies

Association Teacher educators from ten institutions and programs in the United States Canada and Germany describe the ways in which they have changed teacher preparation to more fully incorporate cooperative learning concepts Analytical commentaries on the programs highlight the learning experience of these programs as well as underlying issues of needed reforms in teacher education Included among best practices in education cooperative learning may require a shift in program philosophy and disciplinary areas to meet the challenge of complex organizations and diverse student populations As the essays in the volume demonstrate a new alignment of field experiences to provide support for novices to implement cooperative strategies and to receive timely and effective supervision for these attempts may also be required
