Nexus Network Journal 10,2 Kim Williams, 2008-12-16 This volume features a collection of papers dedicated to Canons of Form Making in honor of the 500th anniversary of the birth of architect Andrea Palladio 1508-1580 Theorist as well as practitioner Palladio's architecture was based on well defined canons that he had gleaned from studying the treatises as well as the remains of architecture from antiquity Palladio himself left to posterity not only his large corpus of built works but his Quattro libri d'architettura Three of the papers in this issue are specifically about Palladio and his work The other papers deal with canons of form making ancient and contemporary

Palladio's Children N.J. Habraken, 2007-04-11 Based on many years of personal observation Palladio's Children critically examines the role of the architect as a professional descendent of Palladio and as an heir to his architectural legacy Seven innovative and carefully crafted essays explore the widening ideological schism between today's architects whose core values identity and education remain rooted in the Renaissance legacy of creating artful masterpieces and the practical demands on a profession which acts within an evolving ubiquitous and autonomous built environment or field. Clearly written yet expressing complex evolving ideas this extended argument opens a new forum of debate across design theory professional practice and academic issues. Moving the subject on from a historical perspective Habraken shows how architects are increasingly involved in the design of everyday buildings. This must lead to a reassessment of architects identities values and education and the contribution of the architect in the shaping of the built environment.

Architects and Intellectual Culture in Post-Restoration England Matthew Walker, 2017-10-20. Architects Builders and Intellectual Culture in Restoration England charts the moment when well educated well resourced English intellectuals first became interested in classical architecture in substantial numbers. This occurred after the Restoration of the Monarchy in 1660 and involved people such as John Evelyn Robert Hooke Sir Christopher Wren and Roger North. Matthew Walker explores how these figures treated architecture as a subject of intellectual enquiry either as writers as designers of buildings or as both. In four substantial chapters it looks at how the architect was defined as a major intellectual figure how architects acquired material that allowed them to define themselves as intellectually competent architects how intellectual writers in the period handled knowledge of ancient architecture in their writing and how the design process in architecture was conceived of in theoretical writing at the time. In all Walker shows that the key to understanding English architectural culture at the time is to understand how architecture was handled as knowledge and how architects were conceived of as collectors and producers of such knowledge. He also makes the claim that architecture was treated as an extremely serious and important area of intellectual enquiry the result of which was that by the turn of the eighteenth century architects and architectural writers could count themselves amongst England's intellectual and cultural elite.

From Mythos to Logos Michael Trevor Coughlin, 2019-05-15. From Mythos to Logos Andrea Palladio Freemasonry and the Triumph of Minerva explores how myth was used to encode architecture and frescoed interiors with insights that promote peace freedom and kindness as ways of being in the world. The author Michael Trevor Coughlin argues that Freemasonry took root in the Italian city of Vicenza as early as 1546 and that its precepts conveyed through the intersection of myth and philosophy were disseminated widely in buildings and images as well as texts prescribing tolerance and an understanding of the divine that exists in each and everyone.
