Rice Green Revolution in Sub-Saharan Africa Kejiro Otsuka,Yukichi Mano,Kazushi Takahashi,2023-03-01 This open access book seeks effective strategy to realize a rice Green Revolution in sub Saharan Africa based on more than ten years of research

team's inquiries into determinants and consequences of new technology adoption in rice farming in seven countries in this region. Rigorous statistical analyses are carried out by using valuable household data of rice farmers. The book is actually a sequel to the two earlier books on the same subject published by Springer and edited by K Otsuka and D F Larson: An African Green Revolution published in 2013 and In Pursuit of an African Green Revolution in 2016. The main message of the first book was that rice is the most promising cereal crop in SSA because of the high transferability of Asian rice technology, whereas that of the second book was that rice cultivation training programs are effective in significantly increasing rice yield in SSA. This third book has wider coverage in terms of topics, study periods, and study sites. It continues to show the significant impacts of rice cultivation training on productivity and newly demonstrates the high sustainability of the productivity impact of the training and the existence of spillover effects from trainees to other farmers by using panel data. We newly assess the important role of mechanization in intensification of rice farming, high returns to large scale irrigation schemes, and the critical role of rice millers in improving the quality of milled rice. Based on these studies, this book provides clear pathways toward a full-fledged Green Revolution in rice farming in sub-Saharan Africa.

Multi-dimensional Transitions of International Students to Higher Education Divya Jindal-Snape, Bart Rienties, 2016-02-12. International students experience multiple and multi-dimensional educational and life transitions: moving to a new country, moving to a new educational system, and moving to higher educational degree programmes. Within these transitions, they experience differences in the social and organisational cultures, languages, and interpersonal expectations, realities, and relationships. Their transitions also lead to and interact with transitions of professionals, home students, and their families. Multi-dimensional Transitions of International Students to Higher Education provides up-to-date literature research and theoretical constructs that underpin international students' transitions to Higher Education. This book will help you to understand the opportunities, issues, social, emotional, psychological dimensions, and evidence-based interventions that are vital to support an individual through these educational and life transitions. Split into four sections, topics include: Theoretical Underpinning, Research in Different Contexts, Impact of Educational Practice and Social Systems, Interventions and Strategies Used to Enhance International Students' Affective, Behavioural, and Cognitive Transition Experiences. This book is essential reading for professionals, students, and policy makers and provides significant research insights to academics and researchers in the area of education, psychology, and sociology.
